Students Bring '70 Look To Traditional EDHS Scenes

PROCLAIMED to be the largest high school in Macomb county, East Detroit High was jammed with nearly 3,000 students this year. Familiar sights in and around the school building were enlivened by the versatile personalities of the students who contributed to both the academic and social aspects of high school. Although final examinations were re-instated, and Christmas and Easter vacations were cut short due to the September teacher contract dispute, students set out to make 1970 a productive year.

Interests Swell The Surging Sounds Of '70

ENCOURAGED by the restoration of sports and fine arts, students rallied to fill the year with sounds of the new and different.

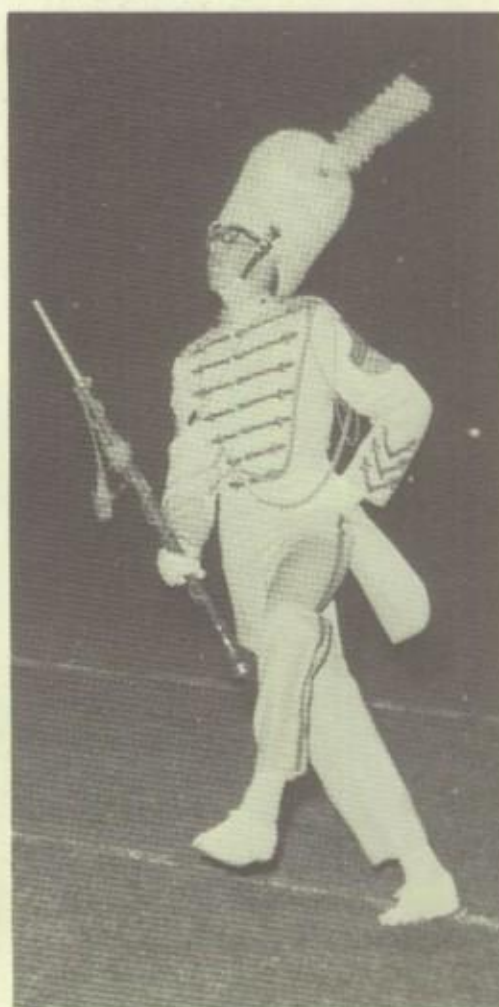

Arguments in the new Senior Senate . . . harmonizing on the bus during the reinstated New York-Washington Tour . . . pleas for donations to build a Peace Corps school . . . splashes of the new swimming team . . . and extremely vocal panel discussions with an inner-city high school were only a few of the many crescendos which made this school year a memorable one.

Focus On Fashions '70

RELAXED regulations brought forth girls in slacks, levis on boys, loud colors and noisy prints. The results were debatable...but definitely East Detroit, 1970!

ACTIVITIES

VOICING pride of school and revealing the varied talents of a large student body, activities added another dimension to life at EDHS. Applause and acclaim rewarded the many participants in plays, concerts, contests and assemblies.

EDHS Welcomes 3 Exchange Students

EXCHANGE student Marie Alwa has the thrill of entertaining her family who visited the United States last fall. Mrs. Birgitta Alwa, Eva, Marie, and Mr. Anders Alwa sit in on one of Marie's classes.

SWITZERLAND, Sweden, and Brazil were represented at East Detroit high this year by three girls who participated in the Youth For Understanding exchange program.

Marie Alwa of Malmo, Sweden and Suzanne Schweizer of Basel, Switzerland, flew into Detroit and enrolled as seniors at EDHS. Although they have enjoyed many varied experiences here, two of the highlights which stood out for them were Homecoming activities and receiving EDHS class rings.

In January, Marie Elaine Viana joined the student body as an exchange student from Teresina, Brazil. Elaine enrolled as a junior and was scheduled to attend East Detroit high through June.

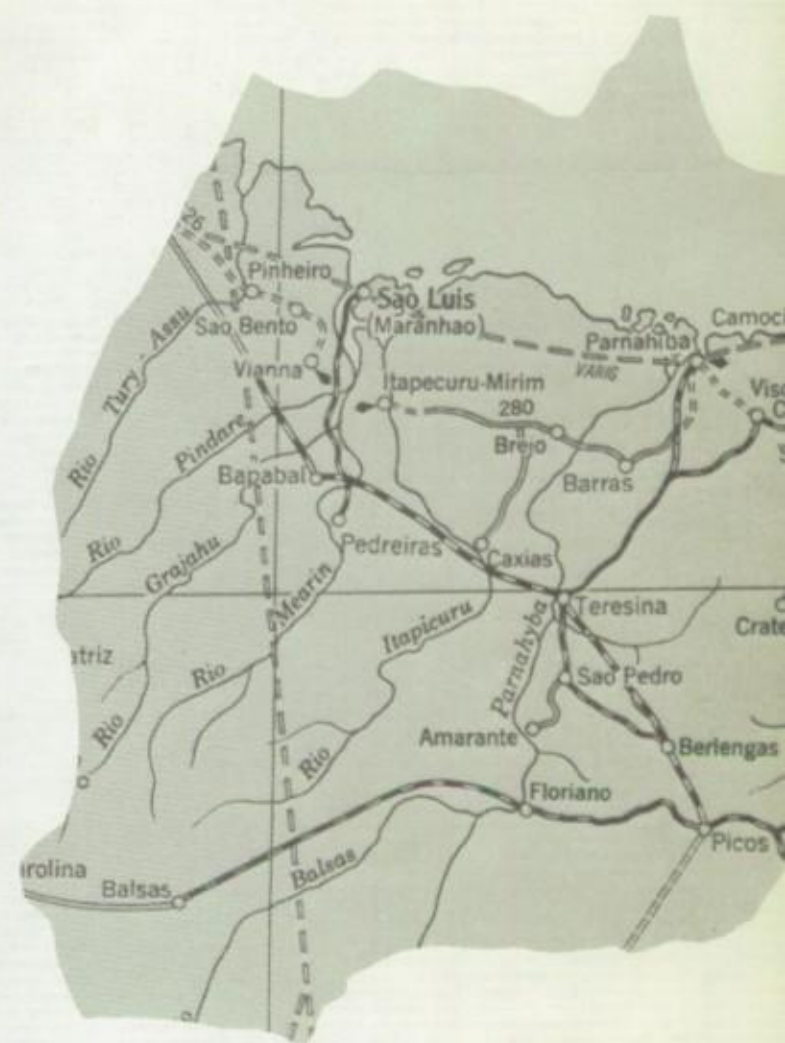

The girls found that the busy pace in East Detroit gave them an opportunity to observe life in an American metropolitan high school. They participated in many school organizations and readily answered student inquiries about their homelands.

These friendly representatives added an international touch to their classes and clubs, helping to present personal and sometimes unique views of world affairs as they affect other areas of the world.

While here the girls lived with the families of Sarah Dufendach, Bill Webb, and Carol Gnesda.

Bonfire, Revived Parade Spark 1969 Homecoming

HOMECOMING got a special boost this year with the restoration of a parade and the Shamrock victory over Port Huron which clinched the EML championship for East Detroit high.

The Homecoming parade, an EDHS tradition, was reinstated after an absence of five years. Colorful portions of the parade included the winning class float constructed by the seniors, the Key club's float, judged first in the competition for best club float, and the drama club's "best decorated" car.

Halftime ceremonies for the 19th annual Homecoming were highlighted by the announcement and crowning of Sue Oren, 1969 queen. Principal John Sanders read the result of the secret ballot vote conducted earlier in the week. Students made their selection from six senior candidates nominated by their classmates. Representing the senior segment of the Royal Court were: Julie Jarkey, Wendy Lenning, Heather Pannecouk, Gayle Warner, and Lynn Wayne.

Entertainment for the halftime show got off to a dramatic start with the cheerleaders' dance interpretation of "Aquarius." The marching band saluted the game of football on its 100th anniversary, and senior band members were also honored in their last performance at a football game.

An innovation in the form of a pool party opened the festivities of Homecoming week this year, followed the next night by the annual bonfire and rally at Kennedy Park. A "dress up" dance honoring the queen and her court was another innovation, moved this year to Saturday night.

Approximately 400 students were on hand at the dance to close the 1969 Homecoming activities and celebrate East Detroit's victory and championship.

History Tour Reinstated With Larger Participation

WASHINGTON, Williamsburg, and New York took on new and special meanings to several East Detroiters as the social studies tour was reinstated after an absence of one year. The trip was cancelled last year due to millage failure curtailments.

The 1969 tour was enlarged to 69 members as compared to the previous 40. A professional tour company was engaged to plan the tour and two busses were chartered which would accommodate the larger number. Applicants with a 2.0 average or better were screened by social studies teachers for the final selection.

Washington, D.C. was the first destination where the group visited Arlington National Cemetery, Mount Vernon, the Supreme Court building, the White House and FBI headquarters. The seniors watched Congress in session and saw paper money being printed at the Bureau of Printing and Engraving.

One day was spent at Williamsburg where tour members walked through the Governor's Palace, the House of Burgesses, a typical Revolutionary War gun arsenal and jail, and visited several craft shops.

Places of interest in the New York portion of the trip included the United Nations, the Statue of Liberty, and the Stock Exchange. The group also joined the excitement of Manhattan at night by attending the musical, "Fiddler on the Roof."

MAJESTIC pillars of the Supreme Court building form an impressive background for tour members Lynne Skonieczny, Eveann Promesso, and Karen Milz.

RHYTHM and colorful effects are the specialty of the Concert band percussion section represented by Jerry Ratcliffe, Larry Meldrum, Jim Pannecouk, and Joe Gross.

OPPORTUNITIES for music students to participate in band activities multiplied as the Symphonic Wind ensemble was reinstated to the curriculum.

Under the direction of Mr. Alfred Marco, over 130 students comprising the Wind Ensemble and Concert band performed in their annual winter concert.

Beginning the second semester the musicians prepared for the district band festival. Both East Detroit bands once again earned "superior" ratings, the highest possible, which enabled them to compete in the state festival.

An exchange concert was arranged with the Clarence high school Wind ensemble from a suburb of Buffalo. The bands enjoyed a spring side trip to Niagara Falls after reciprocating the visit of the Clarence band to East Detroit.

In addition to concert activities students in the pep and marching bands participated in halftime shows, assemblies, basketball games, and parades.

Months of hard work culminated in several year-end activities. Following their annual spring concert, the bands were invited to entertain Greenfield Village audiences in an outdoor concert. The Wind ensemble closed out the year by performing for Commencement exercises held at Cobo Hall in June.

Combined Choirs Help Create Christmas Spirit

VOICES from two choirs sang out this year as a partial reinstatement of the Fine Arts program enabled a second choir to be added to the schedule.

Under the direction of the new choral director, Mr. Ronald Houser, the Concert choir and the new Shamrock choir presented their annual Christmas concert at Oakwood Junior high school. Due to the fire in the high school auditorium in September, first semester activities were moved to other stages.

In addition to the training gained in their choir classes, 18 singers were selected to attend a clinic at Pontiac Northern high school. The students worked on a variety of choral literature and improved abilities in several areas including sight reading.

The choirs planned a full schedule for the second semester with the district choir festival first on the list. Choirs were rated in several categories by judges from universities and high schools from around the state of Michigan.

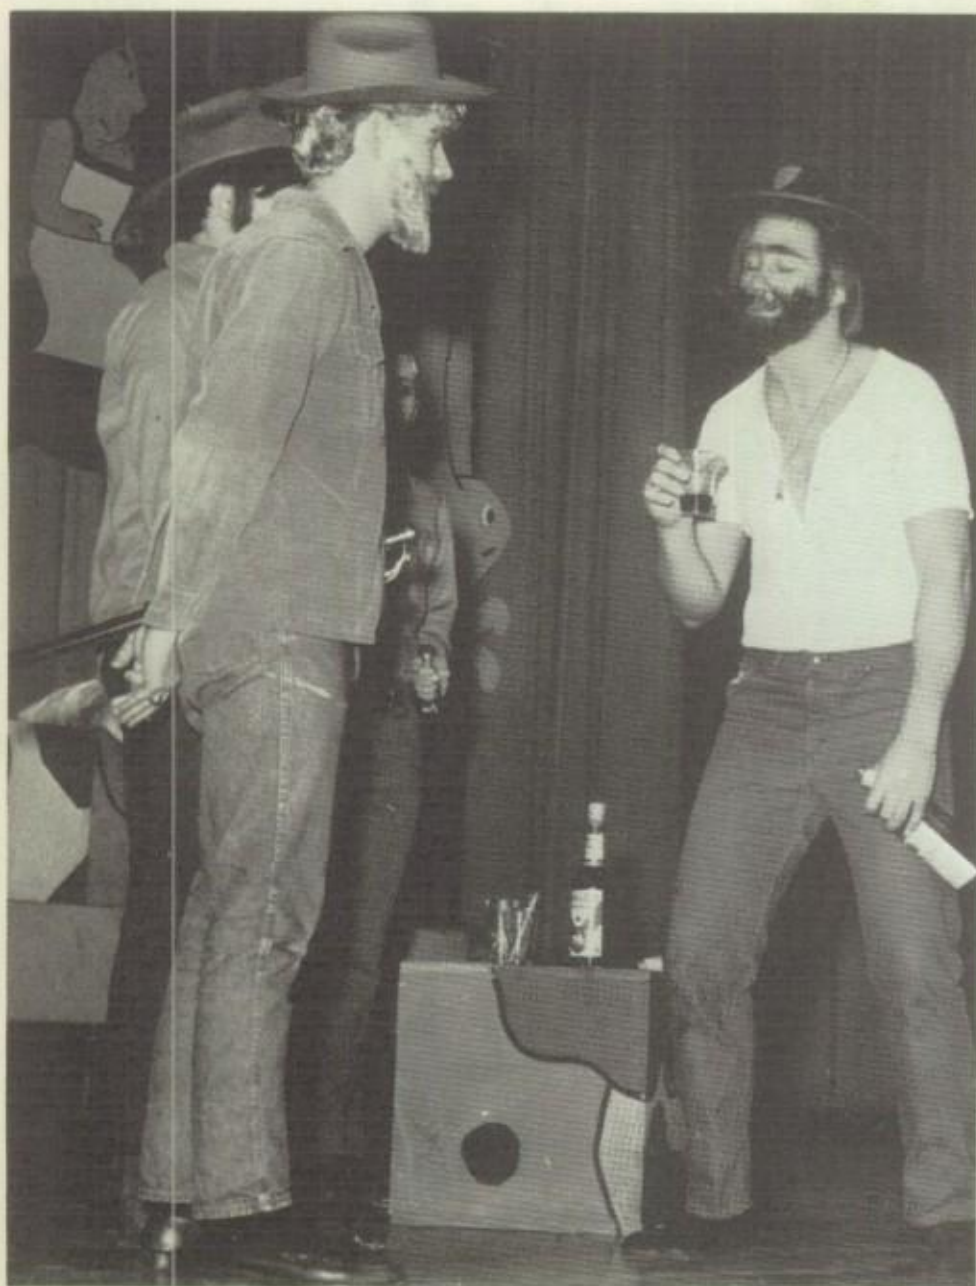

A madrigal and other ensemble groups were formed following the winter concert and joined soloists in traveling to the annual solo and ensemble festival.

The choral year ended with the spring concert and performances at graduation week activities.

Cast Modernizes 'Thurber Carnival'

SERVING as narrator for the comedy, Dale McCauley portrays James Thurber, with Dave Moody as his dog.

COMEDY in a different form was in store for audiences viewing the drama department's fall presentation, "A Thurber Carnival." This play utilized the clever but subtle humor of James Thurber through a series of skits.

Well known examples of Thurber's flair for comic writing, such as "Unicorn in the Garden," "If Grant Had Been Drinking at Appomattox," and "Secret Life of Walter Mitty," were segments of the two act production.

A "Word Dance," similar to Laugh-In's party, opened and closed the play. Dancers "froze" at intervals for one-liner jokes.

The play, under the direction of Mr. Raymond Beard with the aid of student director Cathy Krug, used a simple background and carry-on props.

Although there were no main characters Dale McCauley appeared as the narrator, Thurber, in many scenes with several of the 29-member cast appearing in more than one role.

Working on other aspects of the production were musical director Elaine Schober, choreographer Julie Jarkey, and stage manager Judy Barich.

Because fire destroyed the high school stage, the play was presented at Grant Junior high.

Drama Club Stages Pulitzer Play 'Our Town'

DAMAGE to the auditorium stage influenced the choice of Thornton Wilder's Pulitzer prize-winning drama, "Our Town," as the spring play this year.

The minimal scenery and props used in this play accomodated the fire regulations imposed upon the auditorium.

Wilder discusses life in a small town from a "removed" point of view. Through an introduction and later speeches by the stage manager, John Jarvi, the audience is acquainted with the setting and general plot of the story. The framework of the play centers on the lives of Emily Webb and George Gibbs, the romantic leads played by Denise Yardley and Rick Waitz, and their families.

Portraying members of the two families were: Joan Kolberg, Linda Barrett, Dale McCauley, Marie Alwa, Len Sorenson, and Barry Woods.

Other members of the cast were: Jon Sprecher, Eddy Sirhan, Gordon Nieman, Kathy Wilken, Cathy Krug, Tom Stoner, Tom Macheski, Keith Kawa, Nadeen Brandemore, and Dean Maccagnone.

Mr. Raymond Beard directed this perennial favorite, with the assistance of student director Tarey McGuire and stage manager Judy Barich. The simple stage effects were handled by lighting director Greg Martin and sound-man Dave Moody.

Pep Meetings Build Spirit, Provide Fun

RECOGNIZED as one of the top athletes of the Class of 1951, Assistant Principal and former All-State football player from EDHS, Louis Marcetti, is introduced to the students at a pep assembly by senior class president Mike Olson.

SPIRITED yells echoed from the gymnasium during the pep assemblies scheduled to learn the school cheers and to boost various athletic events.

Although the pep meetings are held mainly to promote football and basketball games, the cross country, wrestling, and swimming teams were also introduced to the student body.

Much of the fun of the assemblies resulted from the humorous skits prepared by the students. Some of the teachers got into the act too, such as the male "beauties" who participated in the Keyette's "Most Beautiful Legs" contest.

Miss Dorothy Demrick, cheerleader sponsor was responsible for planning most of the programs with Student Council President Dave Workman and Senior Class President Mike Olson serving as masters of ceremonies. Major performers at each assembly were the cheerleaders who introduced new cheers and then practiced them by having the three classes compete against each other for volume.

Music played an important part in the success of the assemblies, too. East Detroit's Pep band set the gym rocking and the hands clapping with its renditions of old favorites and popular tunes.

Accomplished Students Win Honors, Recognition

TALENTS in many areas were recognized as East Detroit students won awards for their achievements.

Out of 15 Michigan high school students receiving awards from the National Council of Teachers of English four were from East Detroit. Seniors Dana Jackson, Alan Kadrofske, Cindy Suchocki, and Mary O'Gara earned their honors by submitting samples of their writing and taking a qualifying test.

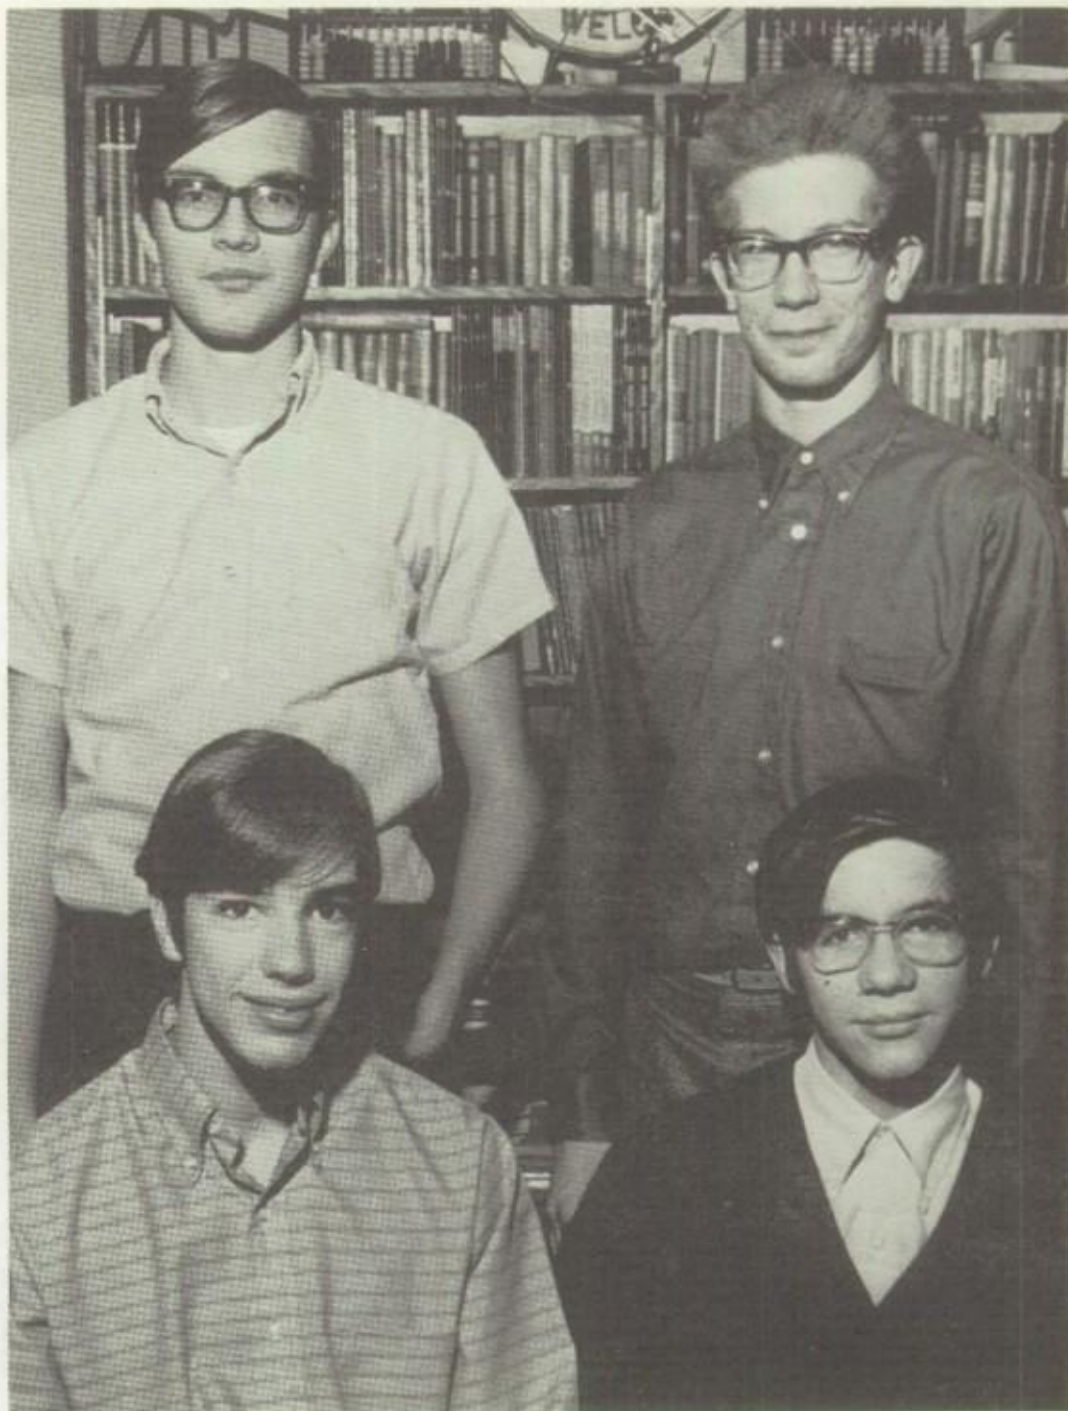

Dave Ther, Mike Meyer, Don Misson, and Richard Guy were singled out for distinction by scoring within the top four per cent of the participants in the Michigan Competitive Mathematics Prize test.

Outstanding scores placed Richard Guy and Peter Lazar above 98 per cent of the students in the country taking the National Merit Scholarship test.

On the basis of citizenship, dependability, leadership, and patriotism, Kathy Hoff won the annual Good Citizenship award from the Daughters of the American Revolution.

By attending a Presidential Classroom for Young Americans Kathy DiLaura and Dan Atkins added to their knowledge of government and toured Washington.

A winning speech on "Freedom's Challenge" secured a First Place for Kathy Domenik, in the Veterans of Foreign Wars Voice of Democracy contest.

Films, Plays, Field Trips Add To Literary Studies

VARIOUS academic enterprises were undertaken in the English department in an attempt to vary curriculum.

Second semester practical English classes were introduced to a unit on "The Art of Films." The pilot course centered attention around the fact that visual aids in education are becoming increasingly important. Teachers also made use of record players, tape recorders, a television, and a video-tape recorder in presenting material to students.

Field trips to area plays broadened English studies, providing a break from the monotony of classroom work. Improvised productions of plays studied in English literature enabled students to more fully understand the period of literature they were evaluating.

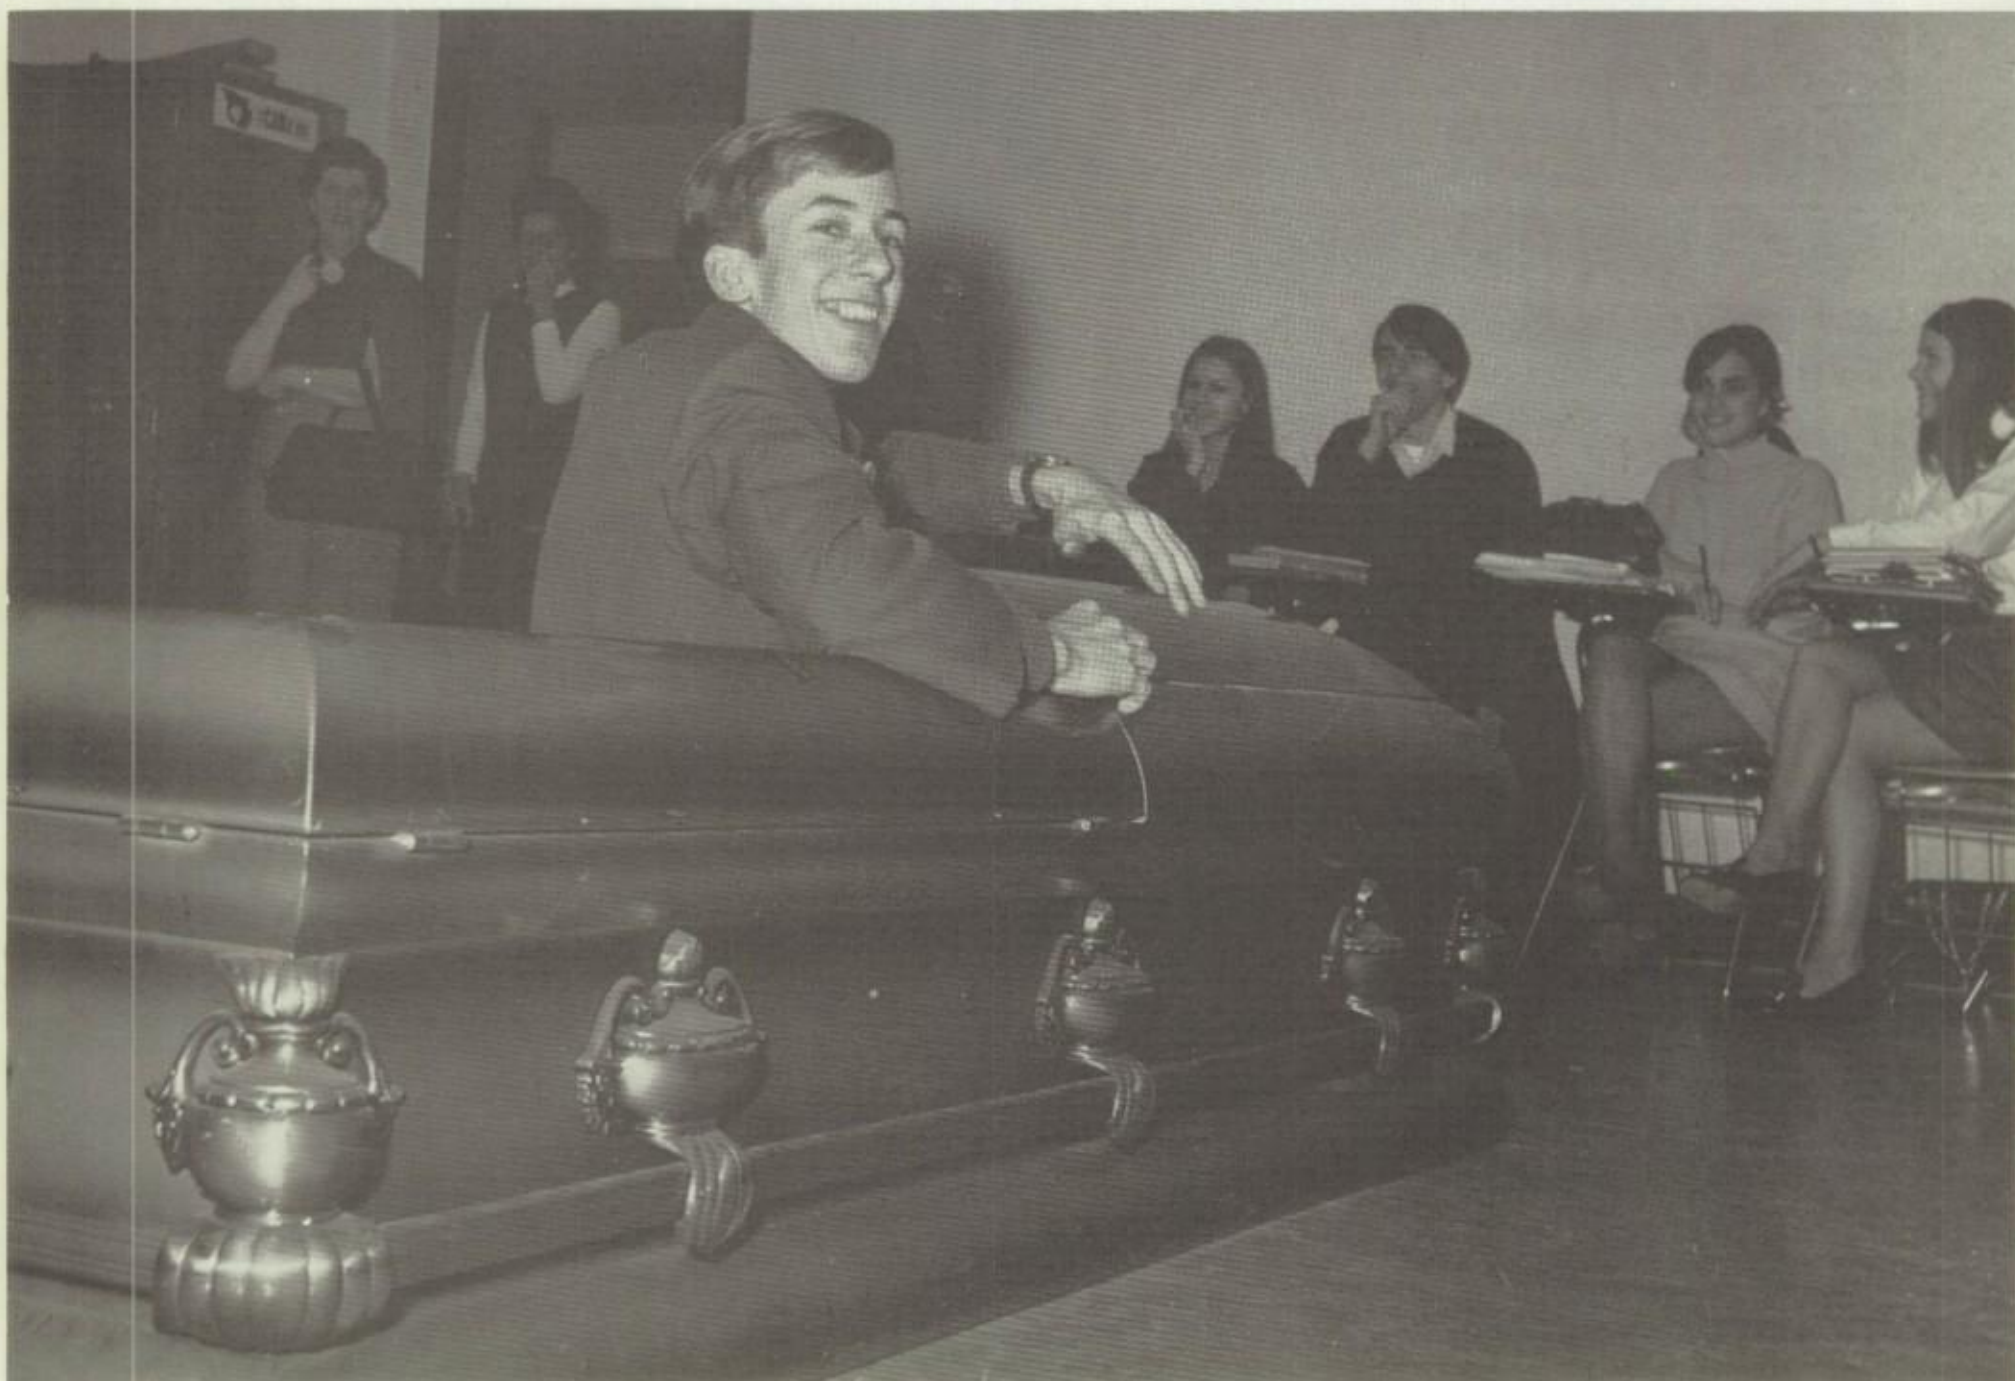

For the second consecutive year the cultural aspect of English was enhanced by an exchange day between selected students of EDHS and Martin Luther King high school. Prior to the visits, tapes were prepared to express student views. On the actual visit, a panel discussion, a tour of the building and a recreational dance was held.

Drama students studied and applied the basics of acting and staging in their classroom work.

Students Expand Talents In Journalism, Speech

JOURNALISM and speech classes aided students in acquiring knowledge and news skills in the written and spoken language.

Under the direction of editor-in-chief Maryann Clegg, the 20-member Shamrock staff planned, wrote, and checked copy for the bi-weekly newspaper and the Senior magazine published in June. The format of the paper was changed and newsprint was used instead of the heavy stock paper used in the past.

This year the news staff decided to eliminate the Cover Girl contest and also dropped the literary magazine, The Leprechaun, which had been published yearly since 1958.

First and second semester journalism aspirants studied the fundamentals of the field such as news, editorial, and feature writing, and page layout.

Because of increased interest, the speech program was expanded this year to include three additional classes. Poise and confidence in public speaking were gained by participation in debates, panel discussions, and demonstration speeches.

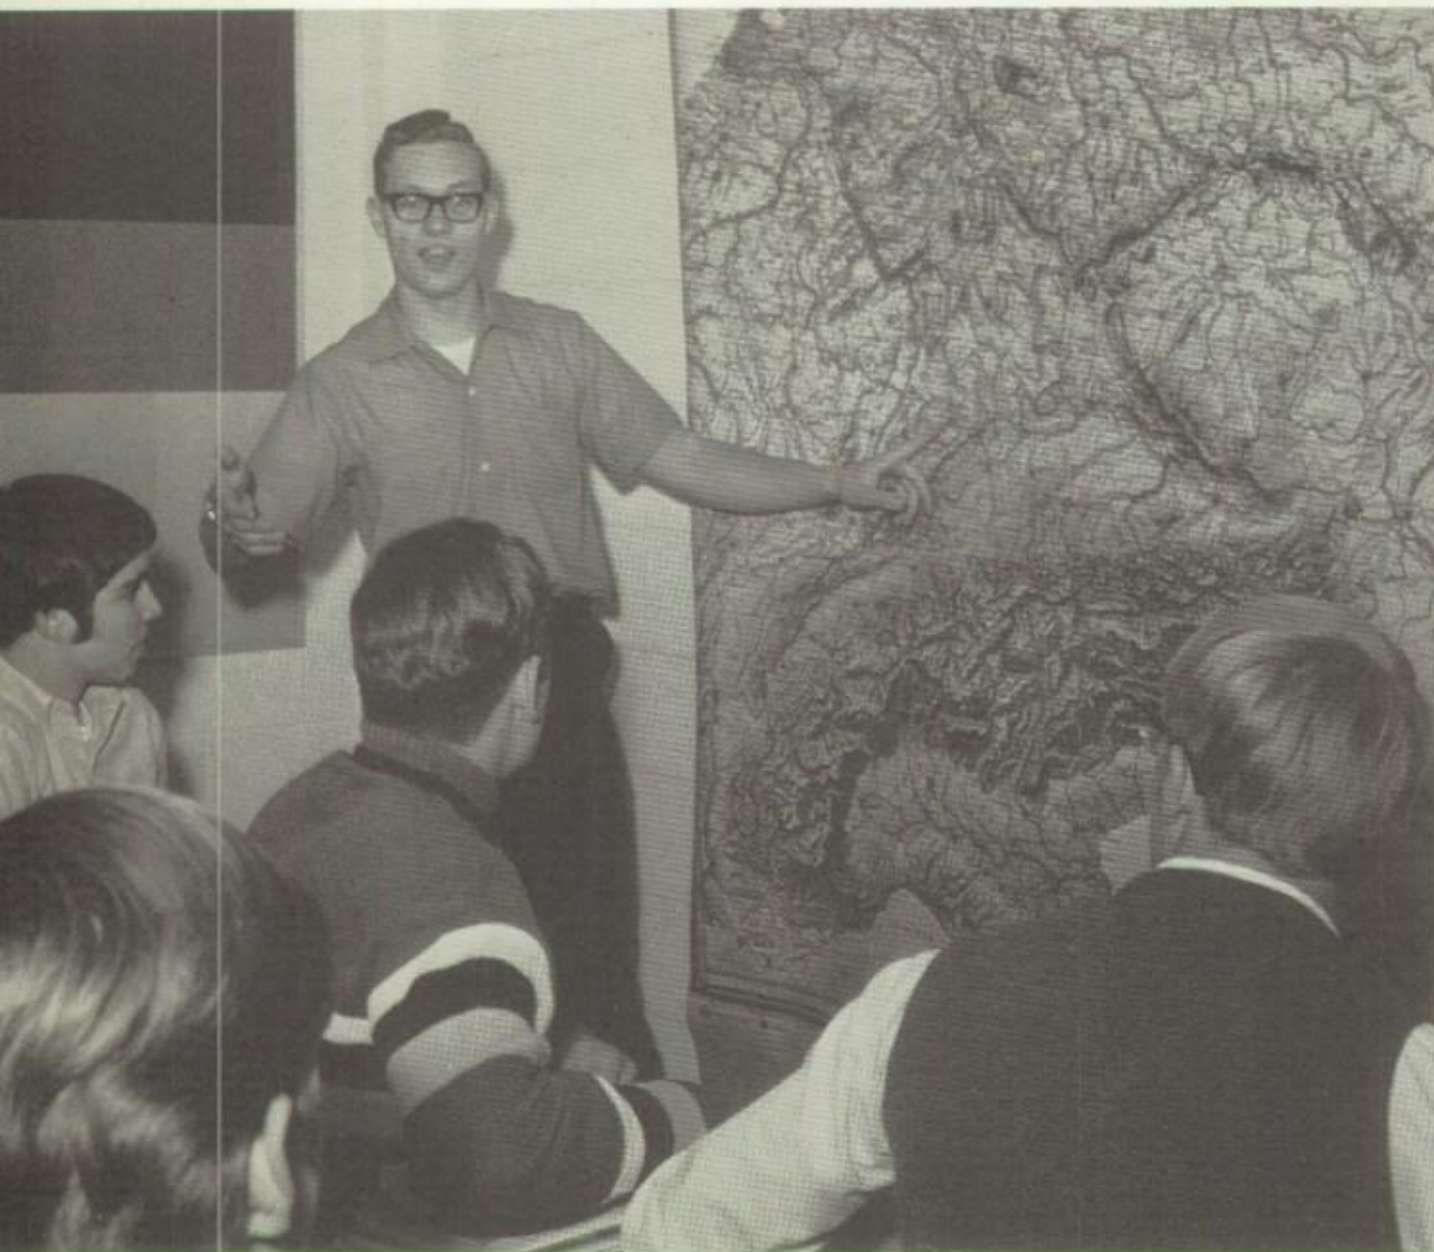

Students also learned the value of critique by evaluating the work of fellow classmates.

Activities Brighten Language Studies

AMATEUR photography entered the language scene at East Detroit high as third year Spanish students filmed a movie about a bullfighter.

The half-hour silent flick, filmed in color, was shot on location at a farm, a restaurant, and at EDHS. Participants in the project organized a bake sale in order to raise money for film and other costs. Third year students also turned out a monthly newspaper entitled "Mucho Toro."

French students likewise ventured outside the classroom to add interest to their courses. Several field trips were planned such as the special showing of the popular French movie, "Marry Me, Marry Me."

German students utilized their language and talents by singing Christmas carols in the community.

Most of the language work, however, took place in the classrooms where students struggled to master vocabulary and sentence structure. Stress was placed on pronunciation and special equipment such as the language labs and tapes on the study carrels in the library helped students improve individual skills.

Advanced language students put previously learned knowledge to work in skits, speeches, and one-act plays that added variety to classroom work.

Social Studies Tries New Approaches

EXPERIMENTAL teaching methods added diversity to social studies classes this year.

Several teachers participated in a pilot program using new approaches. One such approach, used in American history classes, placed emphasis on such topics as foreign policy, minorities, dissent, the "isms," and urbanization in North America. These subjects were studied in their relation to present-day and historical occurrences rather than a study in chronological order.

Interest in social problems caused the formation of 11 classes of American Society, a course dealing with problems of race, environment, and culture.

After a lapse of one year, the Washington—New York tour was reinstated as a part of the social studies program. This year 69 students were allowed to participate in place of the previous 40.

With the financial help of the department, two seniors attended a program in Washington D. C. entitled "A Presidential Classroom for Young Americans." Chosen by a committee of two students and four teachers, Kathy DiLaura and Danny Atkins flew to the nation's capitol for a one week in-depth study of the United States government in action.

Successful Millage Funds Return Fine Arts Classes

INDIVIDUAL expression continued to dominate the artistic creations of art students during the past year.

The addition of another teacher to the art department enabled a more complete curriculum to be offered. Oil portraits, still life drawings, and abstract art were examples of the projects produced by advanced drawing and painting students. Other art enthusiasts experimented with pottery as they delved into mounds of clay to form pots, vases, and candleholders. Metal sculpturing and stone carving also continued to be popular art forms.

With the passage of the recent millage, vocal and instrumental classes were able to partially be reinstated so as to accommodate more students. A new choral teacher was added to the staff providing an opportunity for two choirs to be formed this year. In addition to the wind ensemble, a concert band was reorganized.

Advanced musicians wishing to improve or continue their musical education enrolled in the music theory class which taught sight-singing and composition. Students in music appreciation class studied the various orchestral instruments, the lives of composers, and the history of music.

BASS clarinet players Mary Ann LaSota, Mario Bologna and Bert Bennett match efforts with sousaphone players Dave Workman and Carl Sass in concert band class.

New Geometry Explores Practical Uses Of Math

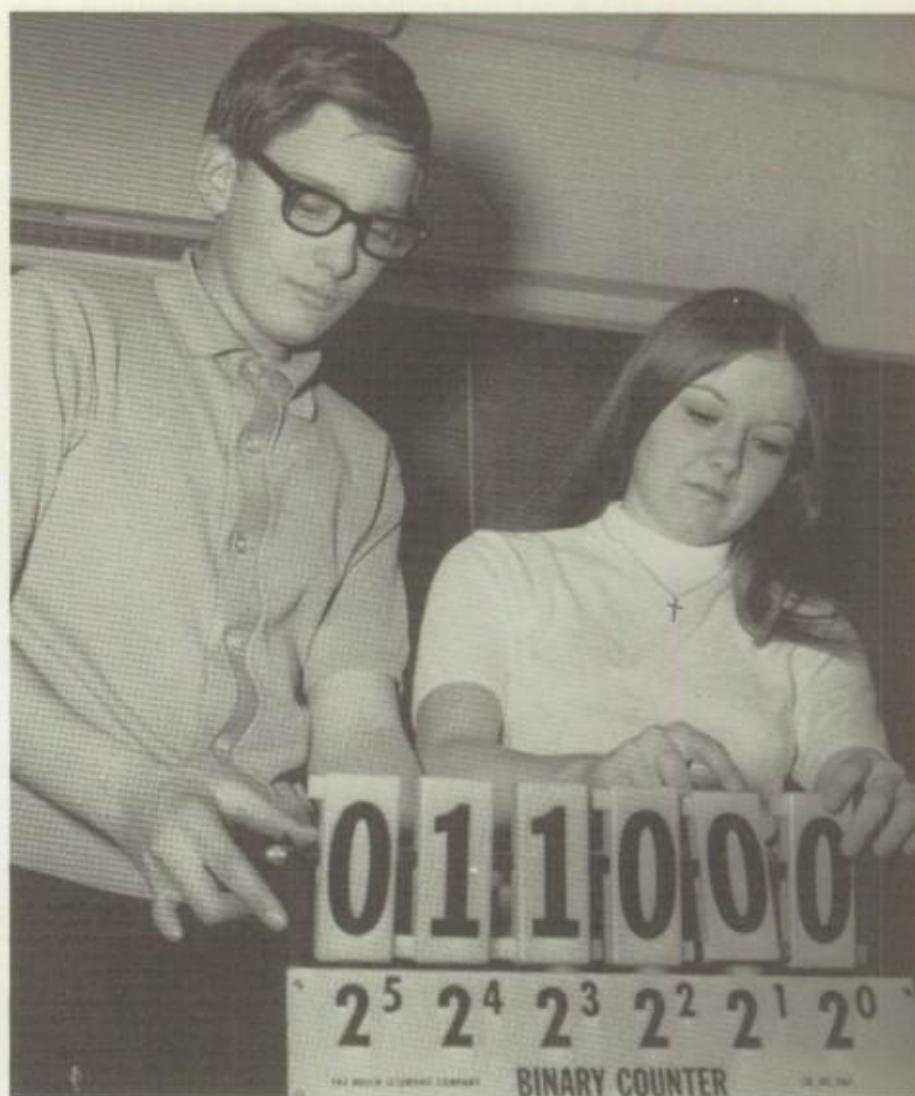

CHANGES were made in the mathematics curriculum this year in an attempt to make math a more functional part of every day living.

An applied geometry course was introduced to teach application rather than proofs of geometric theorems and postulates. This class, along with applied algebra, included basic algebra, geometry, and trigonometry to be used in such areas as industrial arts. A study of optical illusions was made during the first unit to establish the idea that things are not always as they look.

Consumer math, a one semester course, covered the basic arithmetic needed for daily life. Such topics as compiling bank interest rates, the computing of insurance premiums, and household budgeting were explored. A special unit on taxes and filing income tax returns was taught, using booklets from the Federal Income Tax bureau.

Students in an academic program were offered modern math, algebra, geometry, and math analysis to complete majors or minors in mathematics.

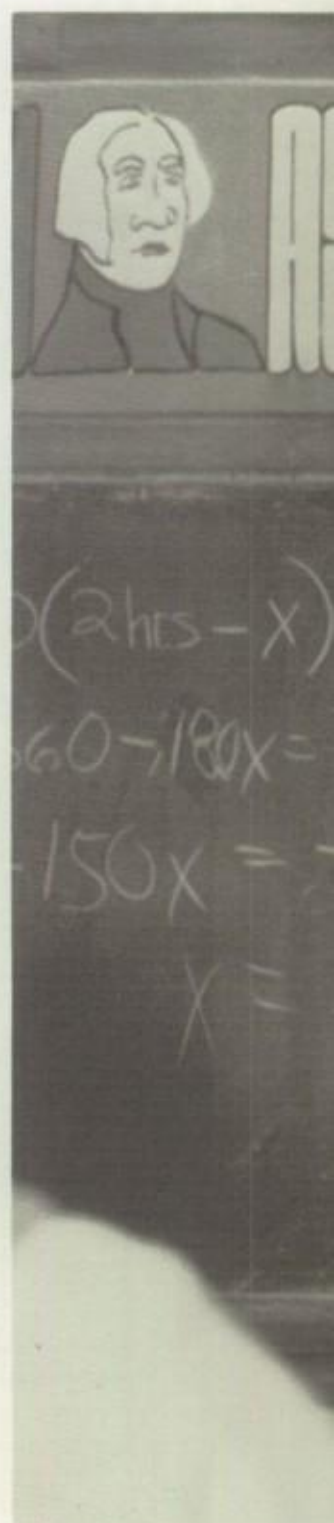

Two electric calculators were made available to students to help them check their work.

Chemistry Class Studies Air Pollution

POLLUTION, a major problem in America's cities today, was one of the special projects studied in the advanced chemistry classes.

Analyzing such poisonous gases as hydrogen sulfide and ammonium chloride, students tested possible ways to solve the pollution problem and produce clean air. An organic approach was also introduced in this class in which students synthesized fats, esters, and proteins after studying their composition.

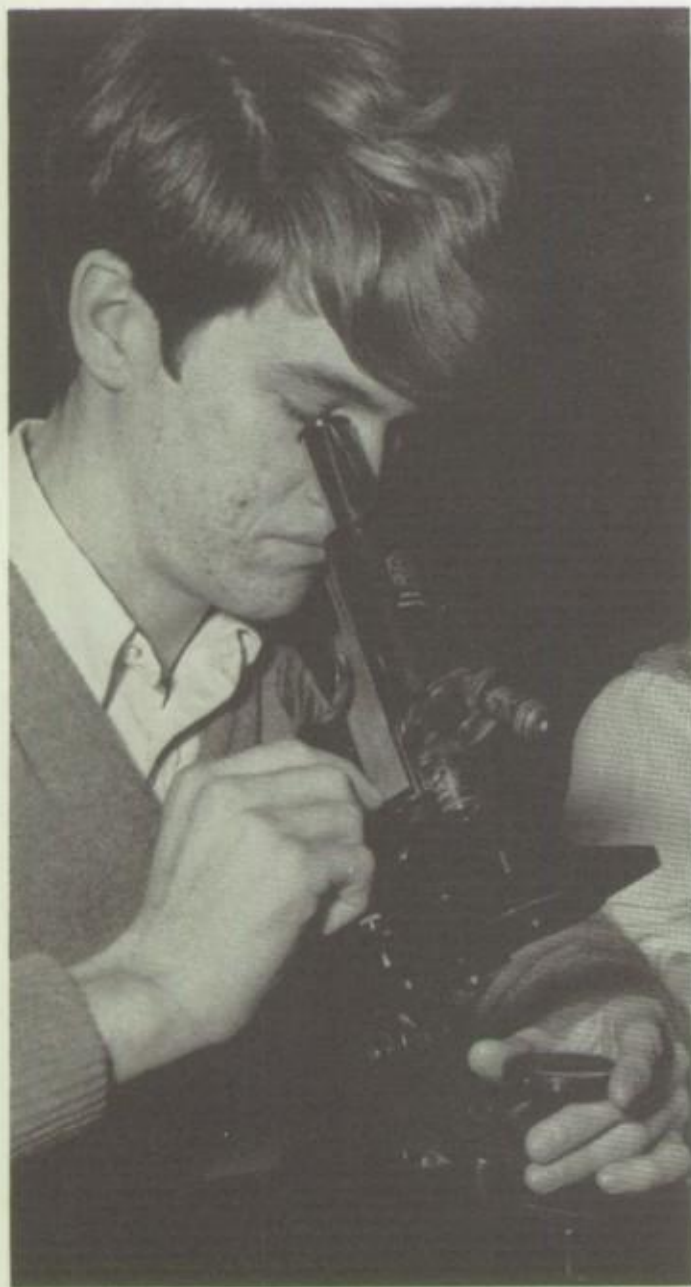

In addition to the usual course of study, biology classes made yogurt from milk and a bacteria culture, and produced wine by fermentation during a unit on anaerobic respiration. One lab biology experiment charted the post-life beats of a turtle heart on a kymograph, a machine which records vibrations on a cylinder drum. Experience in dissection was expanded this year using frogs, rats, cats, and pigs.

Physics classes continued a theoretical approach to science, studying the physical properties of matter.

Science classes often used the services of lab assistants who spent their free periods helping to prepare the labs and clean up after experiments.

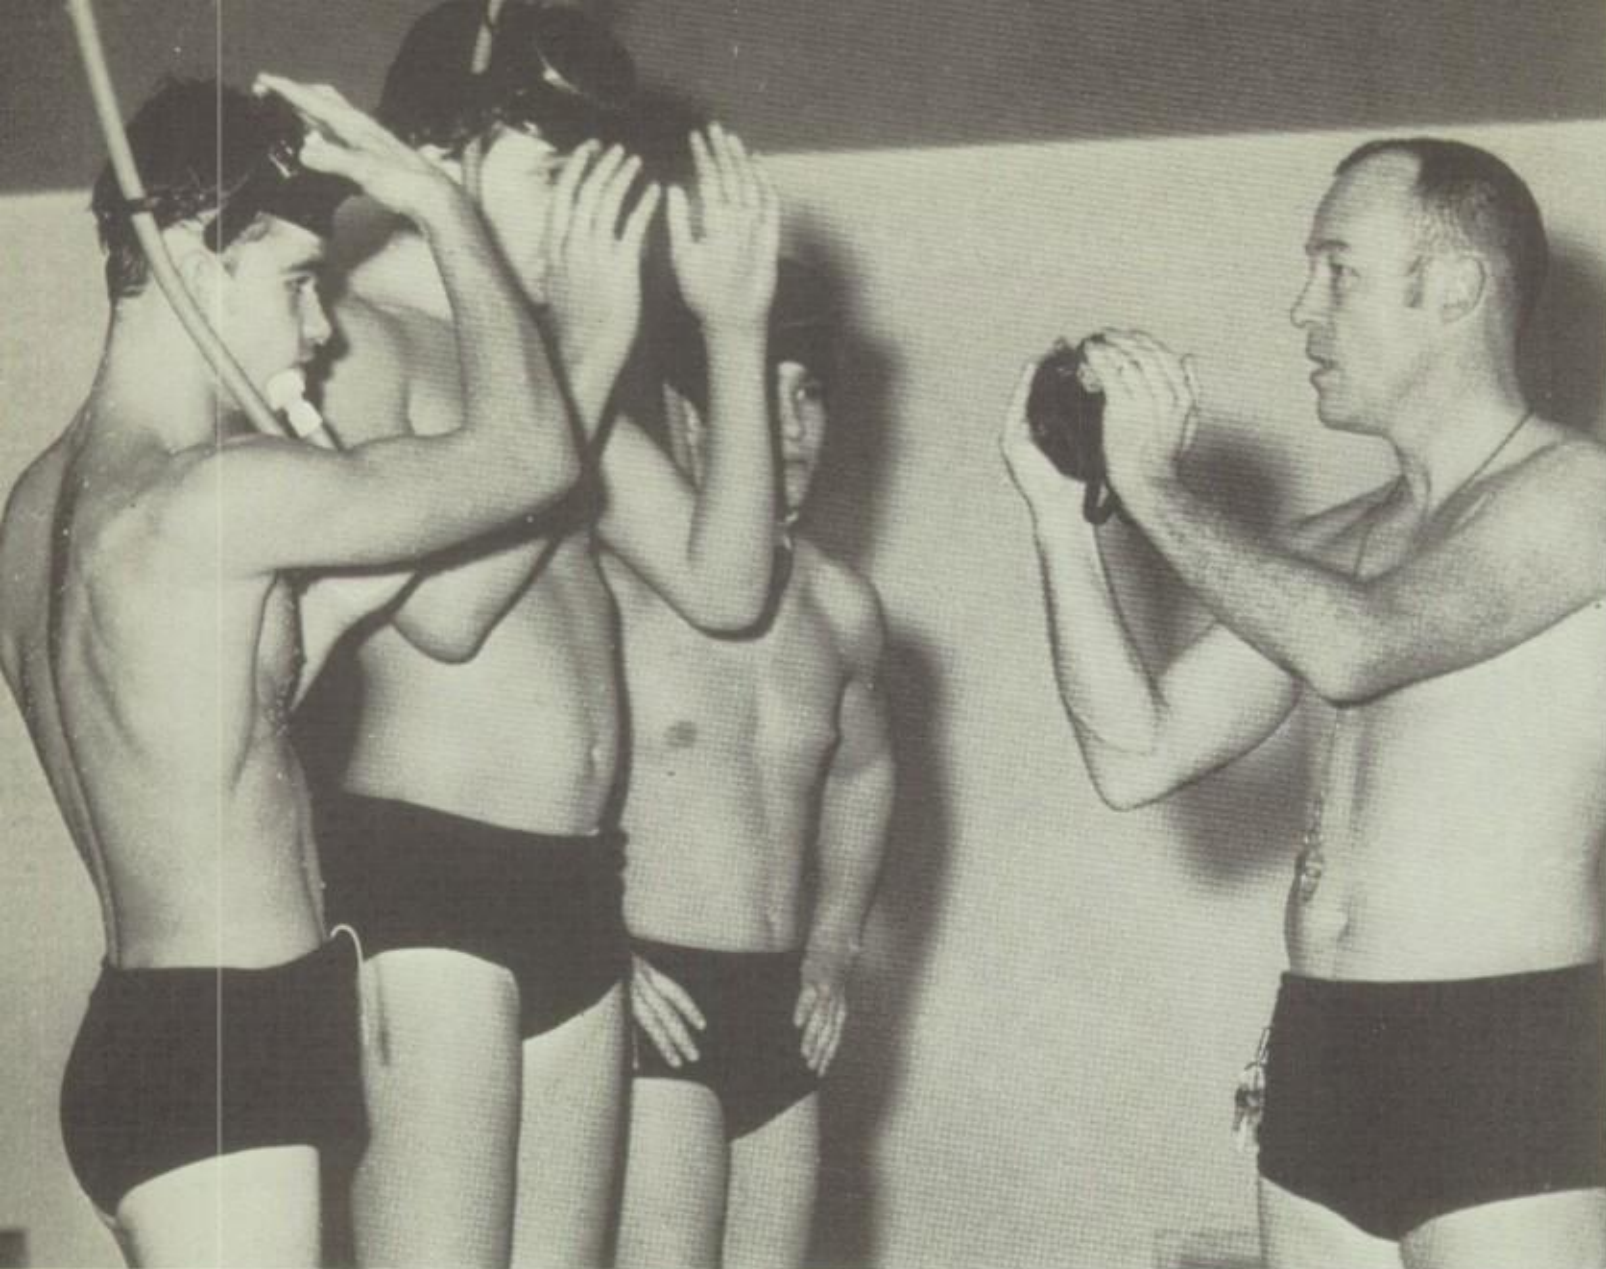

The science department was enlarged this year with the addition of another chemistry teacher.

Skin Diving Supplements Swimming Class Program

SNORKLES, goggles, and fins were added to the physical education scene this year with the introduction of a two-week indoctrination course in skin diving.

This special offering was made available to 11th grade students who also learned advanced life saving techniques, new swimming strokes, and tried their hand at water polo for recreation. Sophomores were introduced to the pool with a 12-week program of basic swimming strokes and water safety rules.

In other portions of the physical education program students helped develop co-ordination by performing on such apparatus as trampolines, rings, the balance beam, and parallel bars. For variety, students played baseball, basketball, volleyball, and other team sports. Badminton, archery, and field hockey helped round out the girls' gym schedule.

Co-educational health classes were continued this year with each sophomore required to take a semester of gym and a semester of health. In health classes students studied the functions of the body along with basic first aid skills, using textbooks, student demonstrations, charts, and teacher lectures as guides.

With four gym areas and a pool, more than 1000 students took part in the physical education program.

New Classes Add Variety To Industrial Curriculum

HEATING and air-conditioning and drafting design, both one year courses, were introduced this year in an expanded industrial education program.

Students in the experimental air-conditioning class found the course to be highly technical in its investigation of all warming and cooling processes found in domestic and commercial areas.

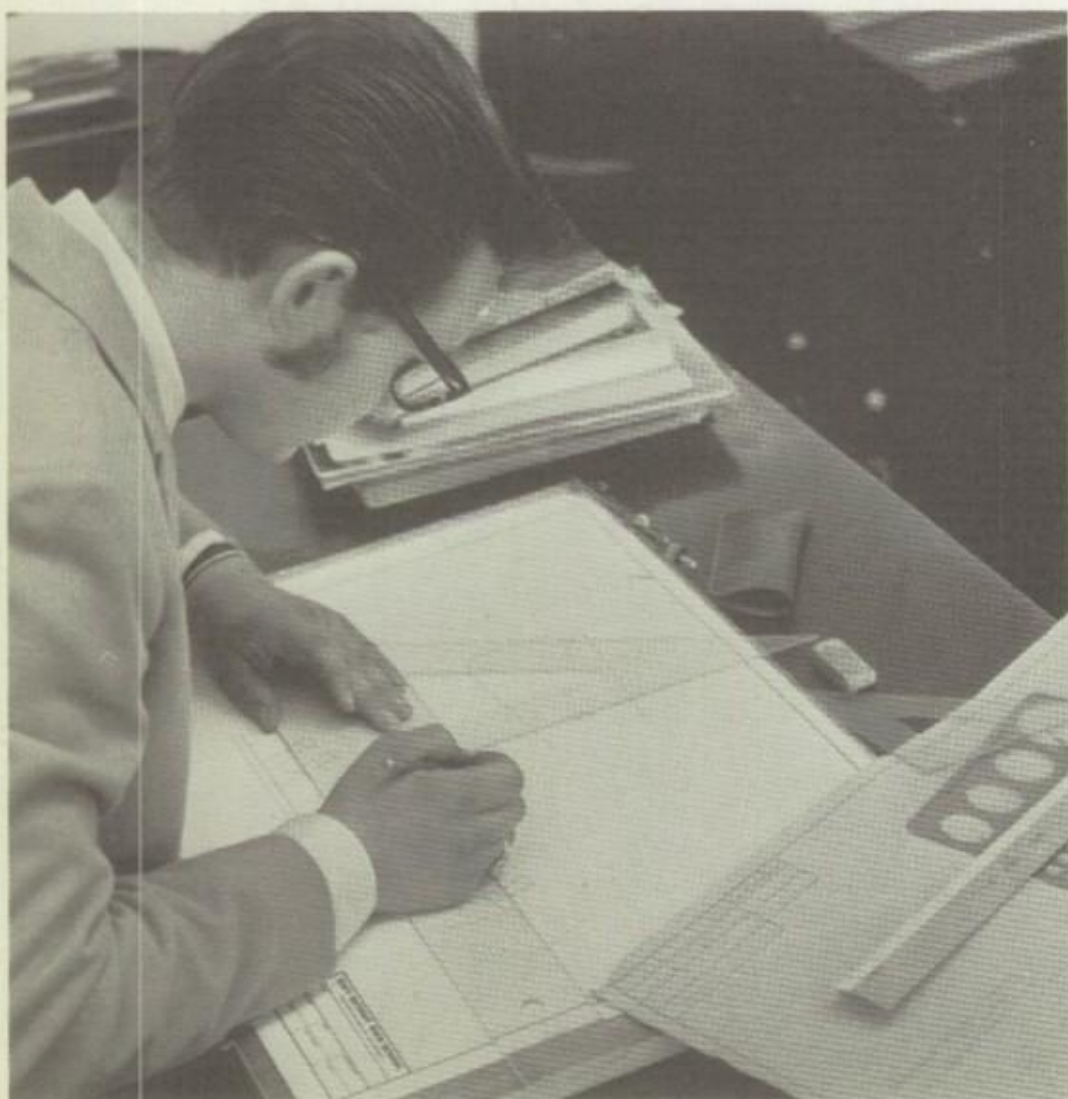

Advanced mechanical drawing students were offered a course in drafting design. Development of products that will cost less, look and work better than existing ones provided the opportunity to perfect drawings as well as a chance for creativity.

In October, the Ford Motor Company donated more than $5000 worth of equipment such as a cut-away auto engine, and two rear axle assemblies, which auto mechanics students used in running their own service shop.

Other courses open to students interested in the industrial fields were machine metal, power mechanics, and metal fabrication which included experience in gas and arc welding.

Boys in woodworking gained experience in the use of basic tools with the advanced class studying carpentry, pattern making, and plastics.

Students in electronics and electricity worked on motors, house wiring, and generators with the advanced classes putting their knowledge to practical use in making solid-state radios and vacuum tubes.

Revisions Modernize Business Classes

MODERN bookkeeping procedures to prepare future accountants for computer-oriented positions, was one of the changes made in the business education department this year.

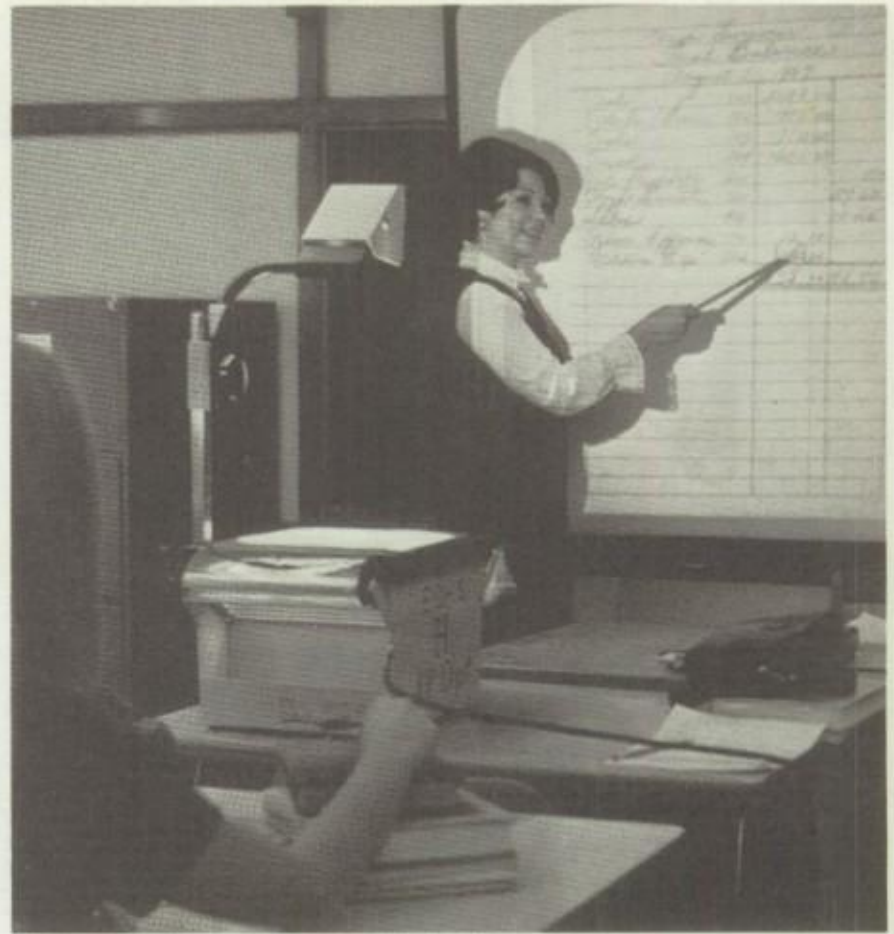

The revised bookkeeping course also introduced a new text to update the information and techniques being used in the ever-changing business world.

Another innovation was the decision not to give typing students a grade for the first marking period. Letter grades were given for the remainder of the year, after students had mastered the basic skills.

The shorthand laboratory was again available for experienced students who took dictation from tapes and advanced at their own rates. A handicap, however, was the limited number and types of tapes available.

IBM Key Punch machines were used in typing and office practice classes, giving students an introduction to computer programming. Other classes included business organization and office machines which provided specialized training in the operation of most equipment found in modern offices.

Merchandising classes studied the retailing field and prepared eye-catching displays in a special showcase to put into effect advertising practices.

Student Co-op Workers Gain 'On-Job' Experience

COMPETITION in the business world is getting stronger every day so this year's co-op program emphasized attitude and quality of work as well as skills.

In this program, students gained on-the-job training at area businesses and offices. Students placed on jobs earned five credit hours each semester. The progress of each trainee was reported to the school by the supervisors at each business.

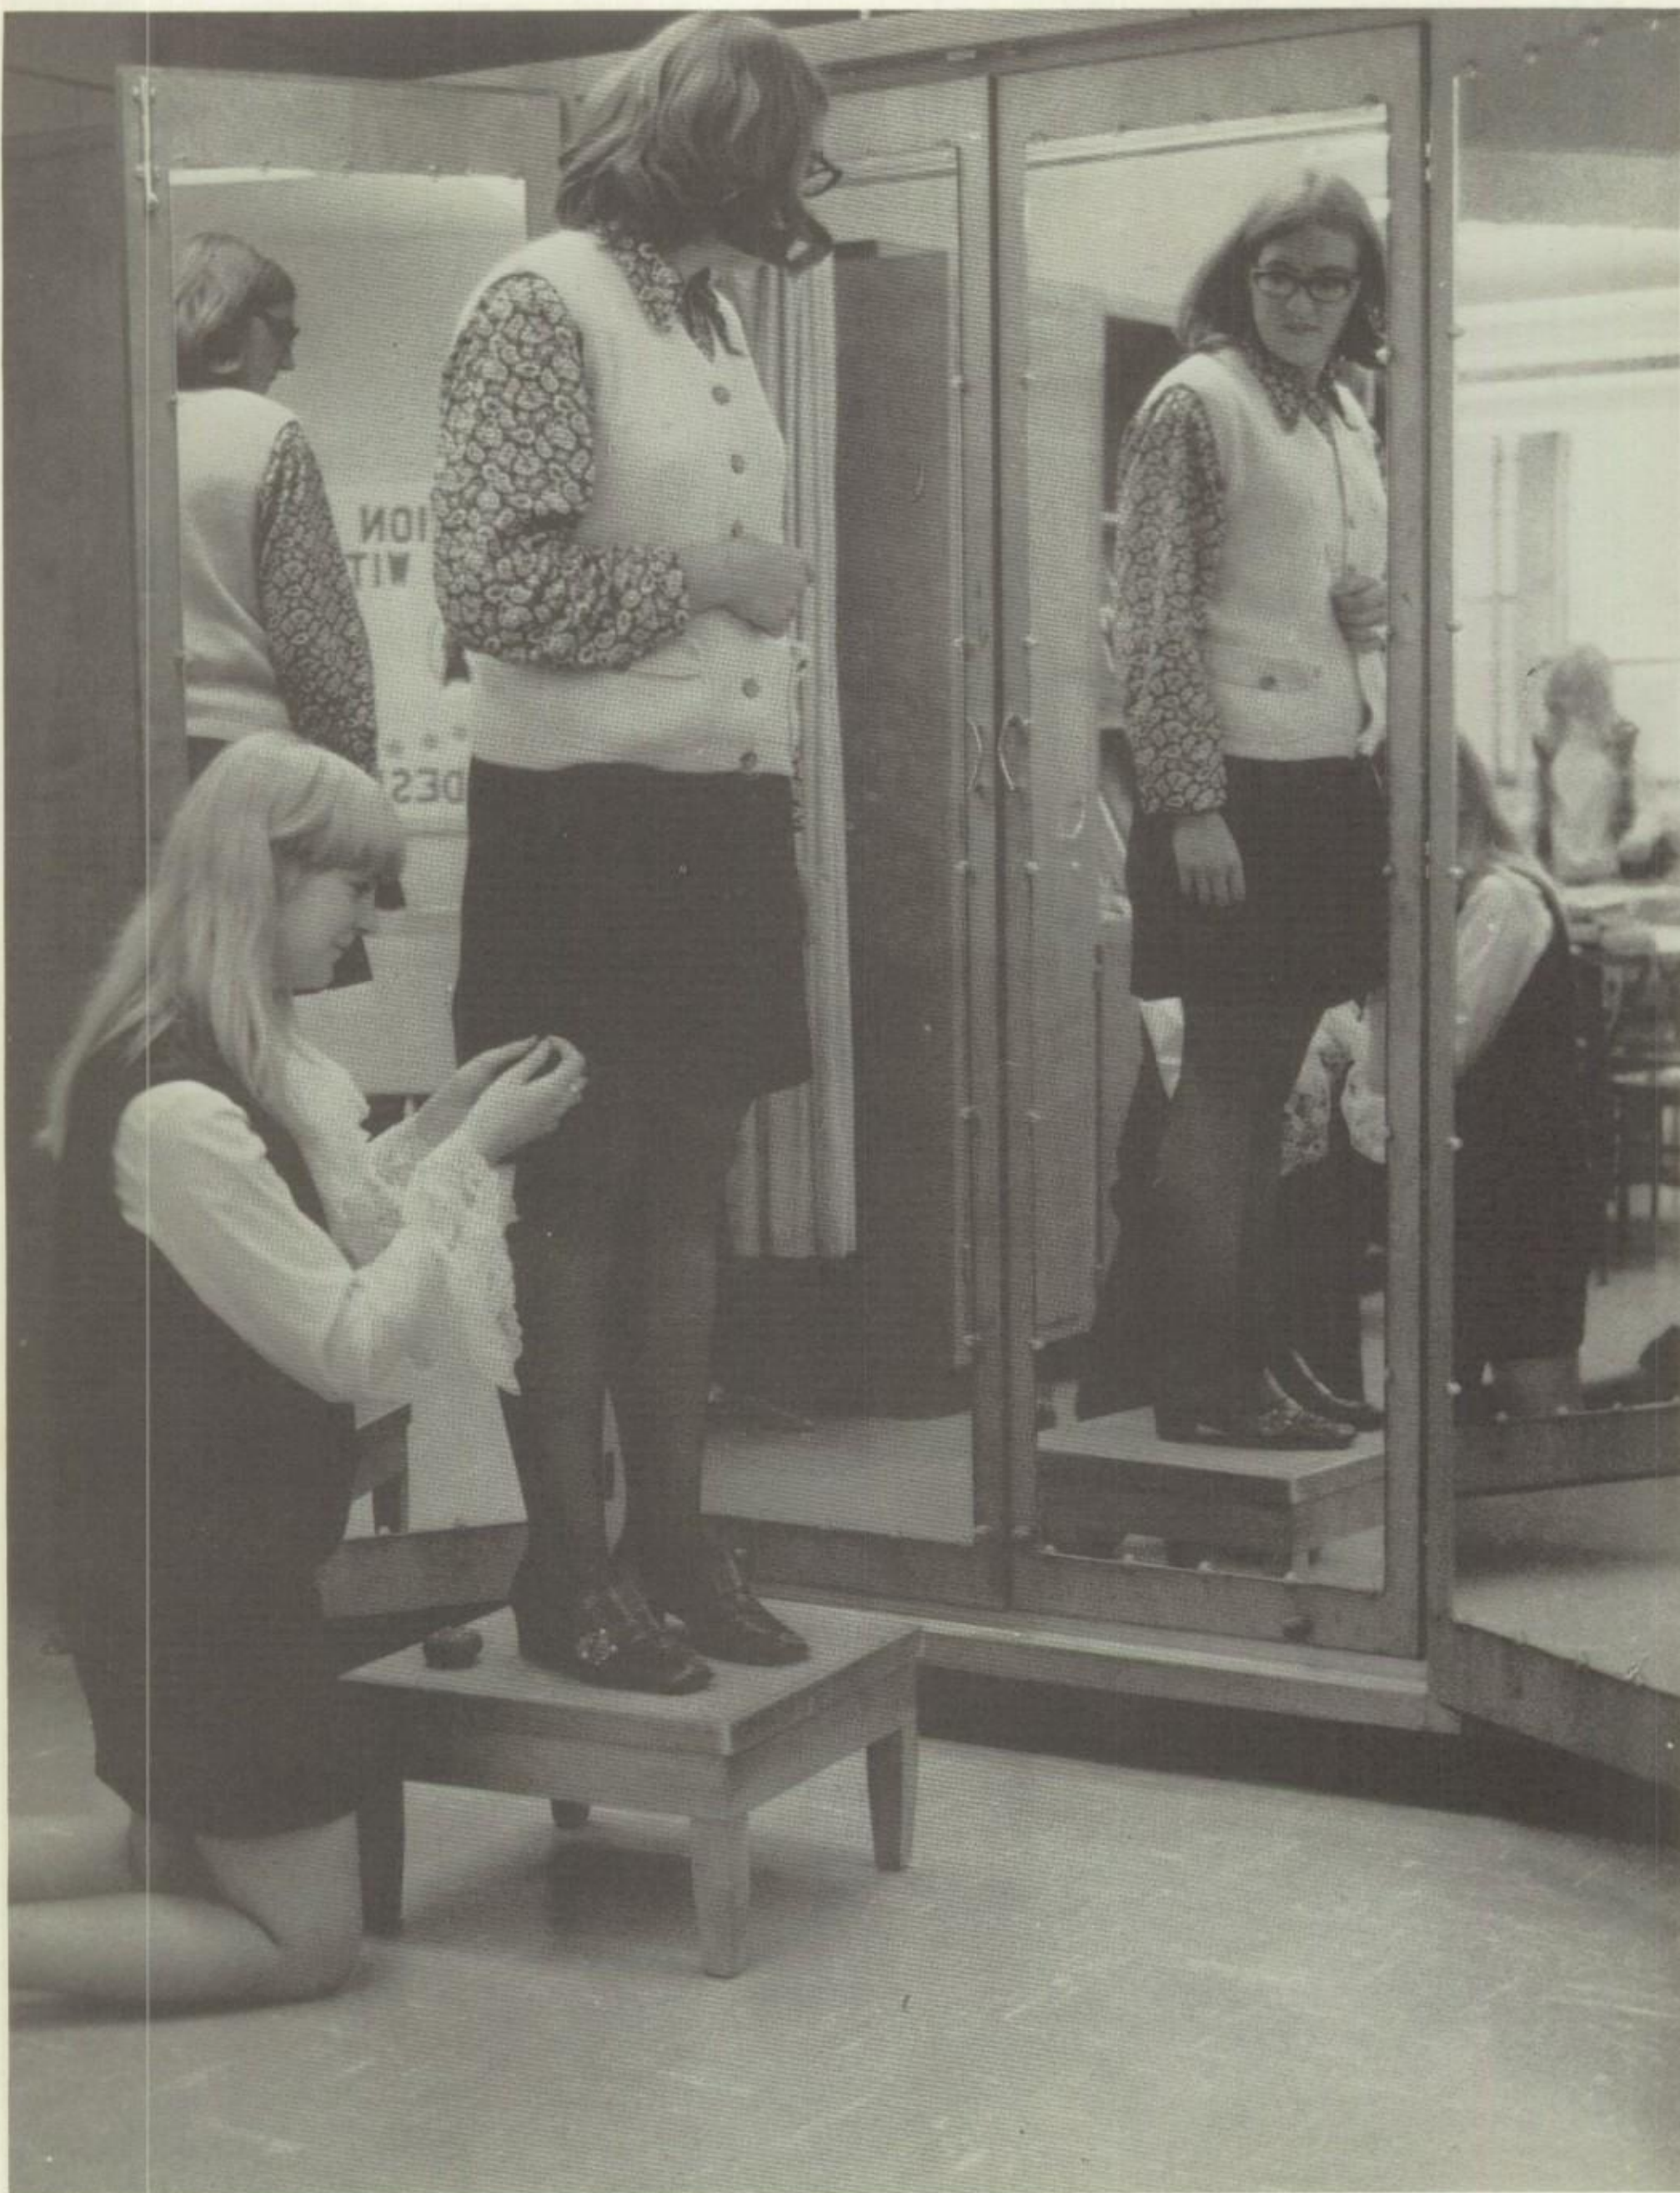

In the office co-op program, students held such positions as typists, stenographers, medical secretaries and switchboard operators. The Office Co-op club sponsored a Christmas formal and a banquet honoring their employers.

Retail co-op students, in addition to gaining experience in selling, also learned the techniques employed in advertising and constructing displays.

Girls on the nurses co-op program were employed as student nurses aides by Detroit Memorial, South Macomb, and Mt. Clemens General hospitals. They performed such tasks as making beds and feeding and bathing patients.

Trade and industry co-op students spent afternoons working in factories, machine shops and engineering training positions, using skills learned in East Detroit's shop and mechanical drawing classes.

Homemakers Of Tomorrow Learn Skills

PLEASANT aromas filled the north halls of East Detroit high as the housewives and chefs of tomorrow prepared their culinary dishes.

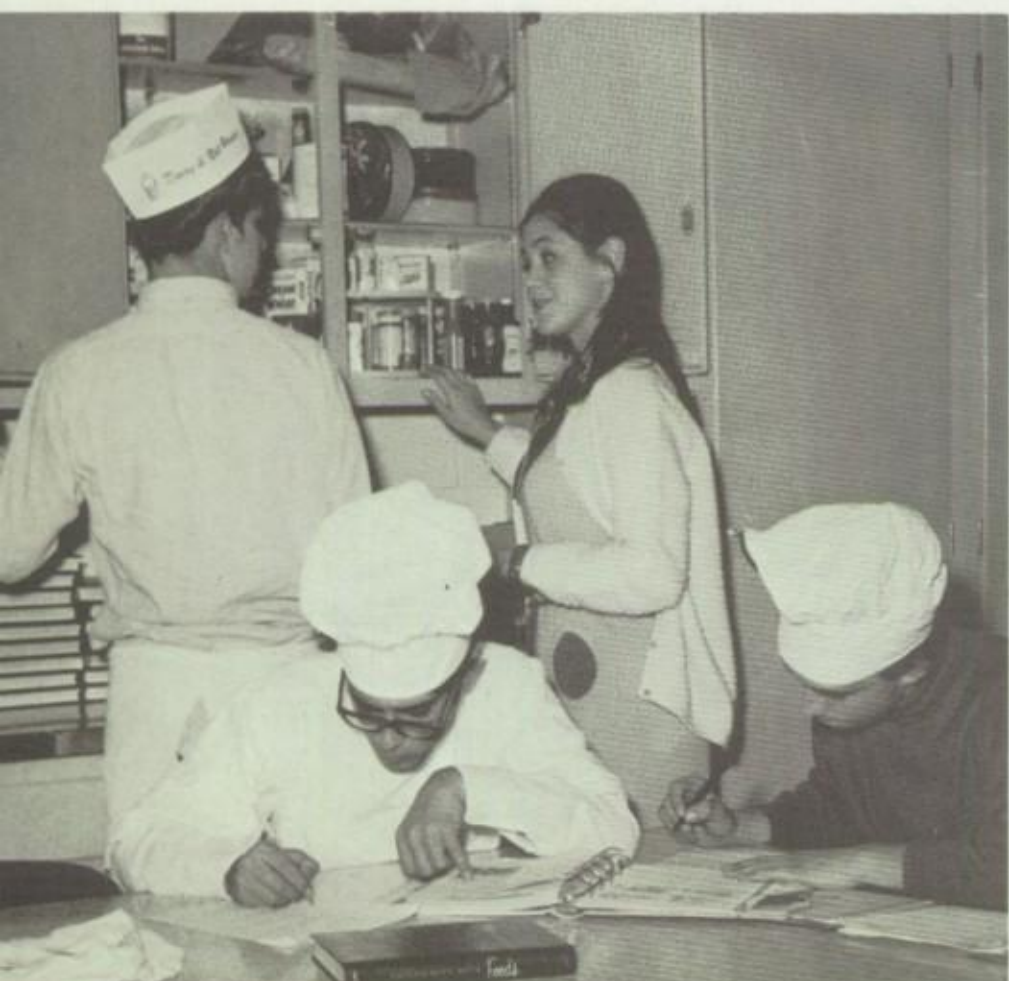

Amid the flour and clatter of pots and pans, students could be found busily practicing what the books and their teacher preached and tasting the results at several teas and luncheons. Dozens of cookies were also baked and sent to soldiers in Vietnam as a special holiday project.

Boys continued to be involved in the homemaking department this year with several of them enrolled in the commercial foods program.

Students in this class sponsored a bake sale which allowed them to utilize sales techniques along with their skills in cooking and the use of large pieces of equipment which they will encounter in their chosen careers as waiters, waitresses, or chefs.

Girls enrolled in first year sewing classes were busy learning the basic "do's and don'ts" in this area of homemaking. Simple garments for the family and unlined suits were some of the more popular projects.

The whir of machines and the snip of scissors in second year sewing class transformed bolts of fabric into such items as pleated draperies and lined suits.

ORGANIZATIONS

ECHOS of discussions, laughter, and fulfillment resounded during the weekly meetings and special projects of EDHS organizations. A record 26 clubs gave students an opportunity for recreation, creativity and a feeling of belonging.

Council Members Strive For Student Involvement

STRIVING to be more responsive to the needs of the students, the 1969 Student Council submitted new clothing regulations to the Board of Education. As a result, students were presented with a more liberalized dress code in September.

East Detroit's Student Council played host to the Eastern Michigan League conference in the fall and used as its theme, "How To Move Youth."

Principal John Sanders opened the meeting with an address to the representatives from the six participating schools. The students took part in group discussions and after lunch listened to guest speakers who urged a greater role by student councils in solving school problems.

President David Workman attended a Student Council workshop at Cumberland college, Tennessee, during the summer to learn more about council leadership and coordinating effective policies.

An innovation this year was the forming of a policy committee which concerned itself with the problems of the student body and tried to find solutions for them. Held every Friday during lunch, it welcomed interested students to take part.

As in past years the biggest event of the school year sponsored by the Council, was Homecoming. This year the events covered three days starting with a bonfire and pep rally on Thursday night and ending with the victory dance on Saturday.

The Council received permission to re-establish the Homecoming parade which preceded the football game on Friday night. Council members also worked hard in handling arrangements for the Homecoming Queen nominations, election, and coronation.

WORKING together to assist both students and teachers, the library and audio visual staffs enlarged their facilities to cope with the needs of the evergrowing numbers attending East Detroit high school.

The every-day operation of the library was largely in the hands of 32 student librarians who checked books in and out, filed magazines and set up materials for the three microfilm machines.

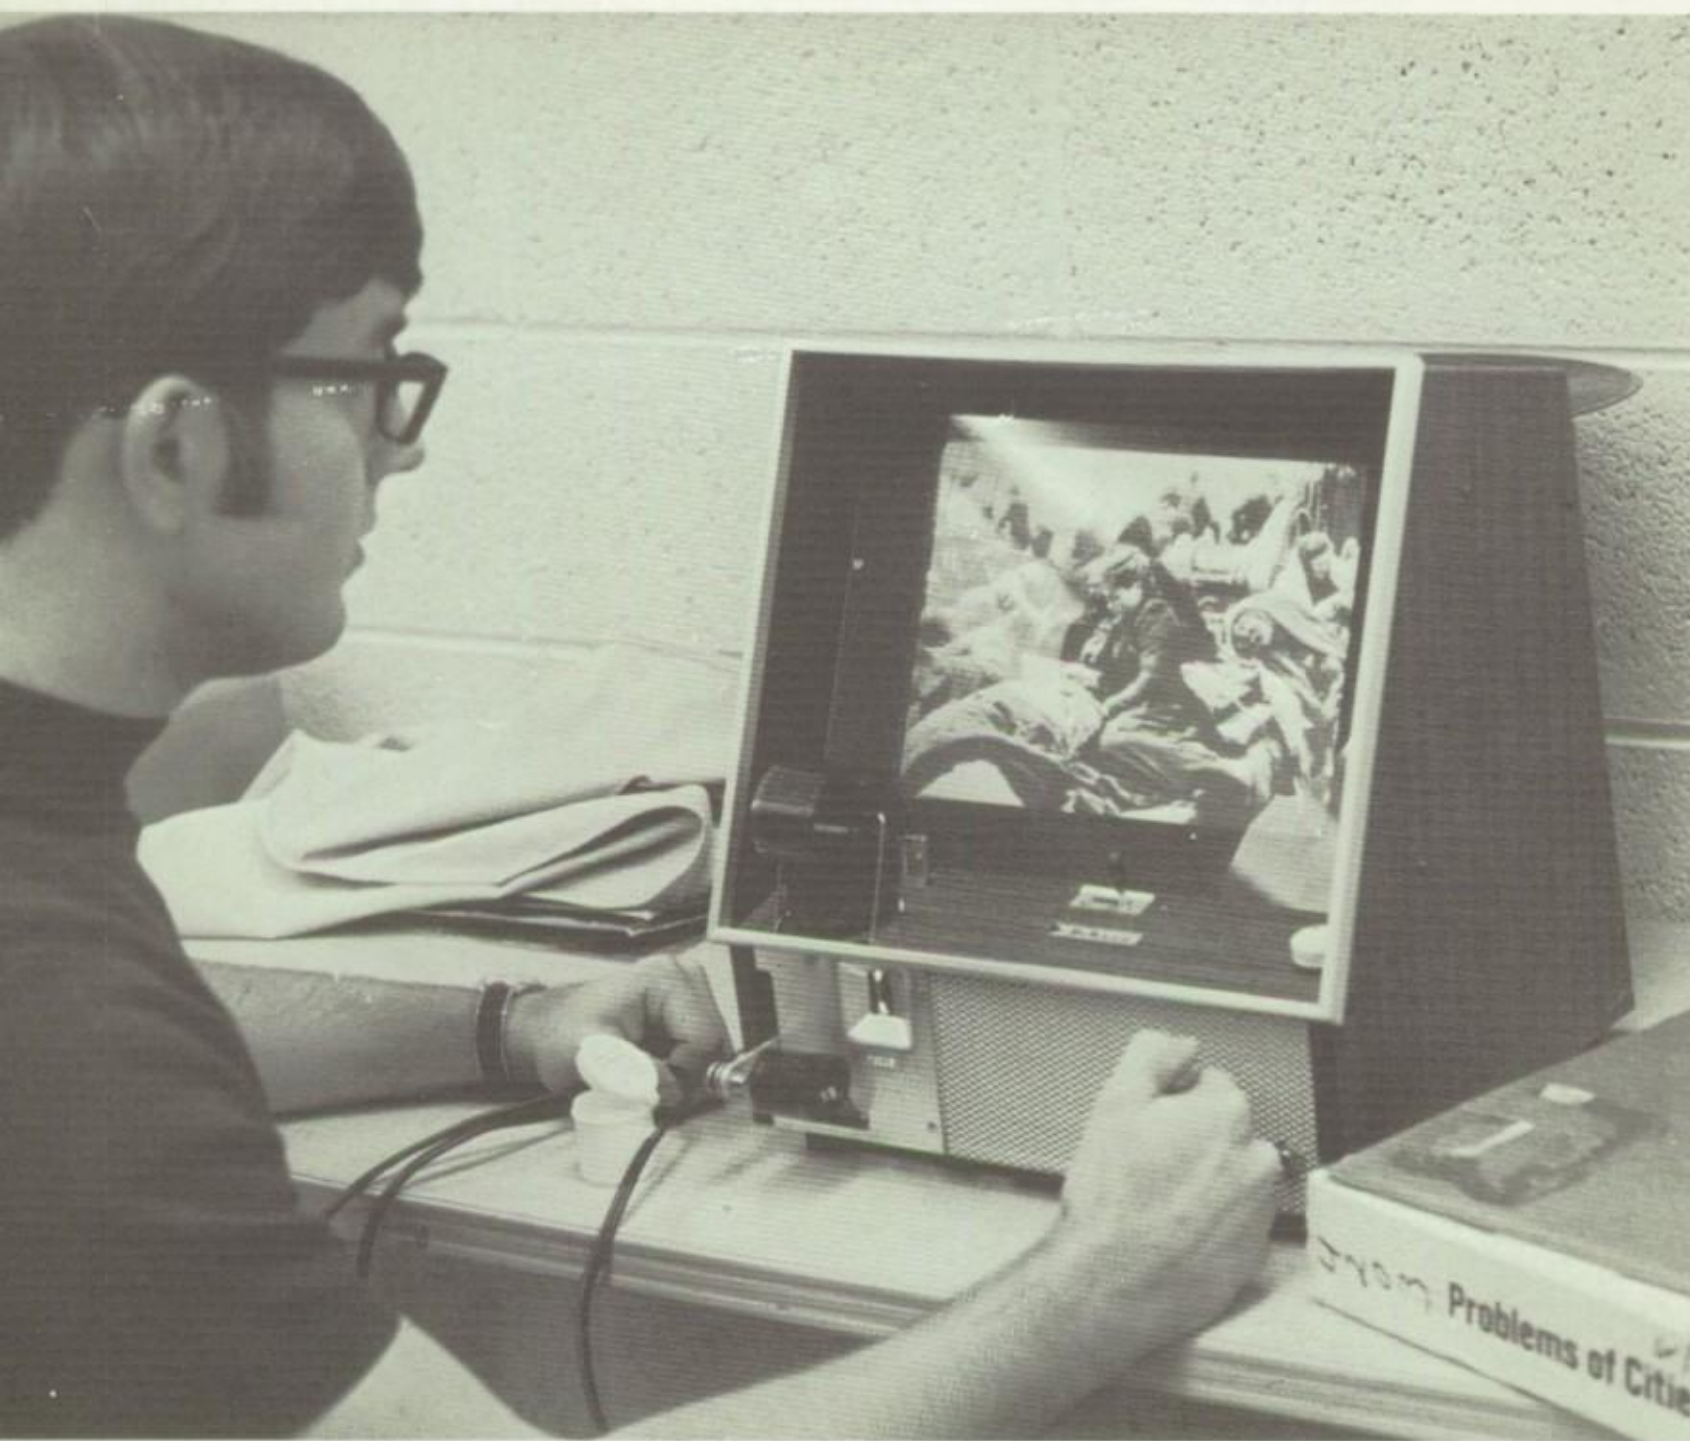

This year a slide-tape presentation, prepared by the EDHS staff, was used to introduce sophomores to the complete learning center. Students had 24 study carrels available for individual concentration or to listen to prepared tapes in various subject areas.

The audio visual staff consisted of 22 students who delivered films, projectors, record players, and tape recorders to classrooms and helped program the study carrels. Approximately 50 film-showings a week were handled by the department this year. Some students also prepared transparencies for use on the overhead projectors.

Many new sound-film strips were made available for classroom presentations. A new automatic previewer, acquired with federal funds, was used primarily by teachers in selecting appropriate films.

Clubs Promote Constructive Services

SERVICE organizations at EDHS continued to provide assistance and aid to both students and the community during the past year.

Office Assistants worked in the counseling and attendance offices and in the bookstore during their free period. These 57 students performed such duties as collecting and recording the IBM attendance cards every hour, delivering messages, and making appointments with the counselors.

Another large group, the Ushers club, assisted at plays and concerts as well as at special functions such as Parent-Teacher conferences and graduation.

Formerly known as the Tri-Hi-Y club, the Coed-Hi-Y group again sponsored the traditional Christmas food drive with help from the Key club.

After a week long campaign, the clubs collected enough food to provide holiday boxes for 20 needy families in the city.

To provide social relaxation for its members and other students, the Coed-Hi-Y sponsored several Folk Rock sessions at the East Detroit YMCA.

As in past years, nine club members traveled to Lansing to take part in a three-day Youth Legislature conference held at the state capital building.

Academic Clubs Provide Service, Fun, New Ideas

CLUB activities were expanded this year with the addition of the Chemistry and Keyettes clubs.

Pollution was the main topic under study by the Chemistry club, in association with the Social Studies club. Committees were formed to examine the three subdivisions; air, water, and soil.

The traditional all-male membership of the Key club sparked the formation of a female branch of the same national organization. The girls sponsored several projects to raise money for their share of the fund to build a Peace Corps school.

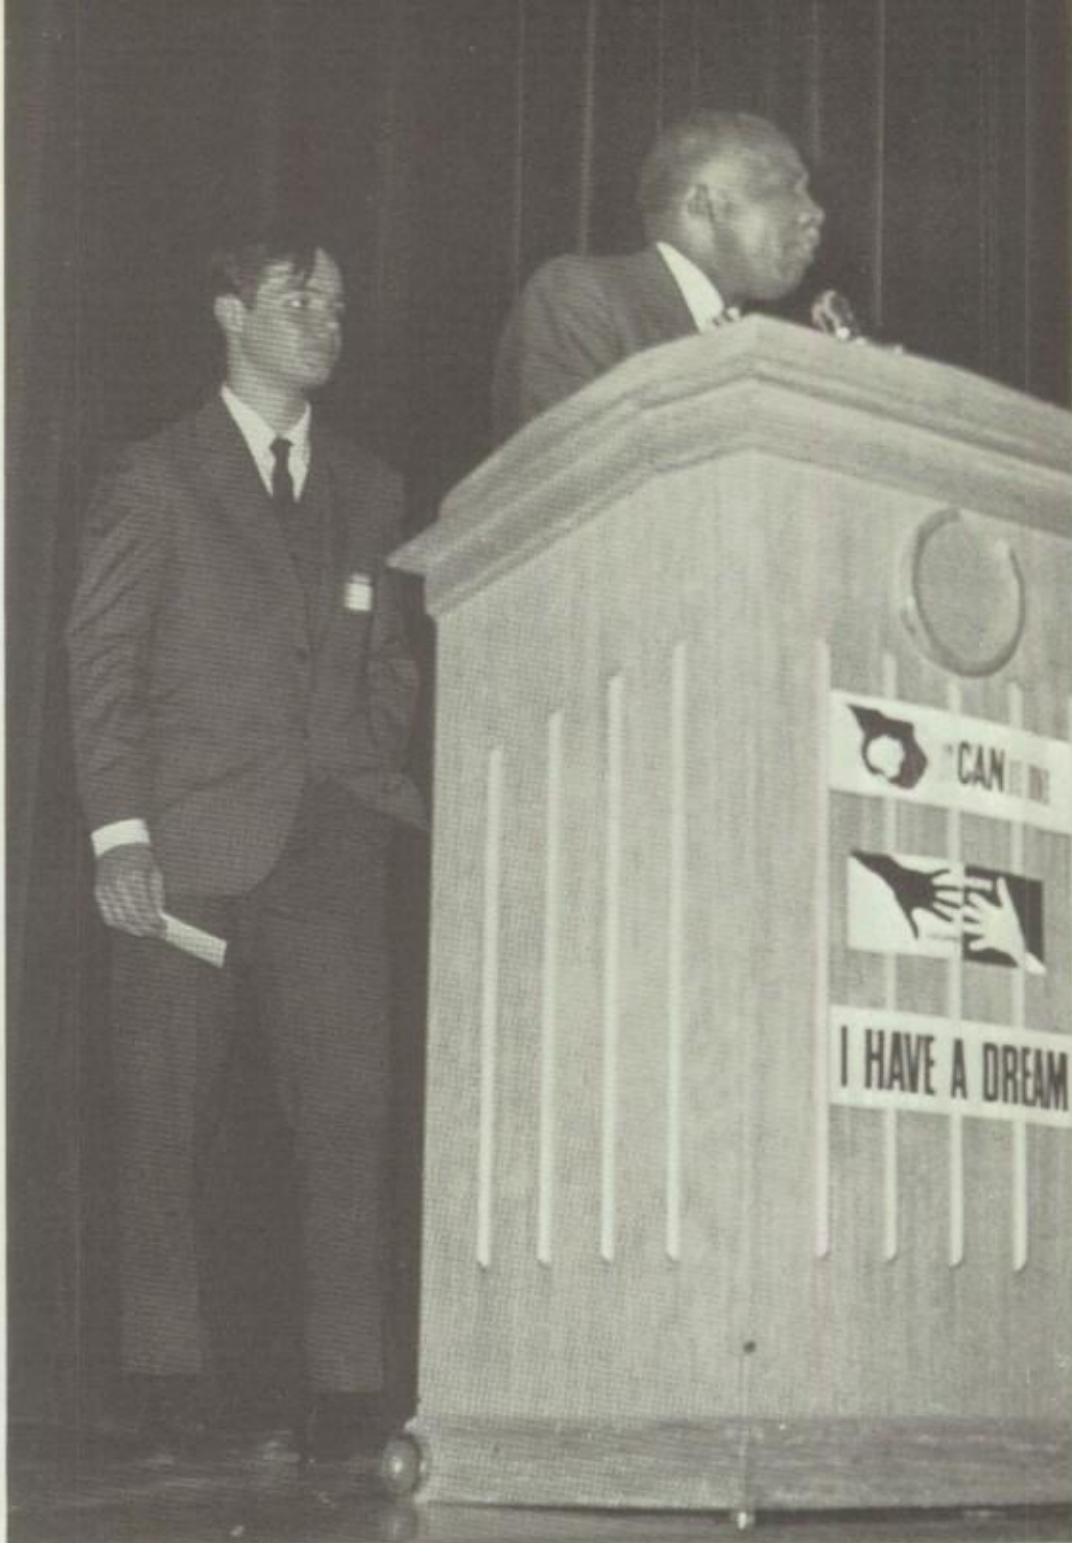

Service projects of the Key club, in association with East Detroit's chapter of the Kiwanis club, such as selling peanuts at football games, brought funds for schools for the blind and childrens' hospitals. The club also awarded monthly $25 savings bonds to outstanding students at EDHS.

Weekly meetings of the Math club provided extra activities outside of textbook work for interested students. Members of the club visited the Macomb County Intermediate School District building to view the new IBM 360, model 50 computer. The club offered preparatory help for the 132 students who participated in the annual Math Prize test.

Chess club membership doubled this year. Weekly matches were held to determine the five players who would take part in the spring tournament.

Students Investigate Menacing Problems

CURRENT problems of the urban ghettos, pollution, and international policies attracted the attention of the students in the Human Relations, Social Studies, and United Nations clubs this year.

Between five and 10 conscientious students from the Human Relations club went into the inner city of Detroit each Saturday to work with the underprivileged. Students solicited free furniture, provided clothing, and sat with children in the day nursery while parents worked.

The club also successfully organized a schoolwide Project Peace Corps campaign to raise $1000 for building a school in some indigent part of the world. The money was raised through raffles, and faculty basketball games as well as donations from many other school organizations. When finished, the school will be named for EDHS.

The topic of pollution was under study by the Social Studies club in association with the Chemistry club. Members researched East Detroit's special problems and produced a pamphlet of their findings and possible solutions.

The United Nations division of the Social Studies club organized as a separate club this year and was selected to represent India at the Model UN convention held at the University of Detroit.

Sports-Oriented Clubs Attract Eager Members

STUDENTS interested in sports, either as participants or as spectators, had several clubs to help direct their energies.

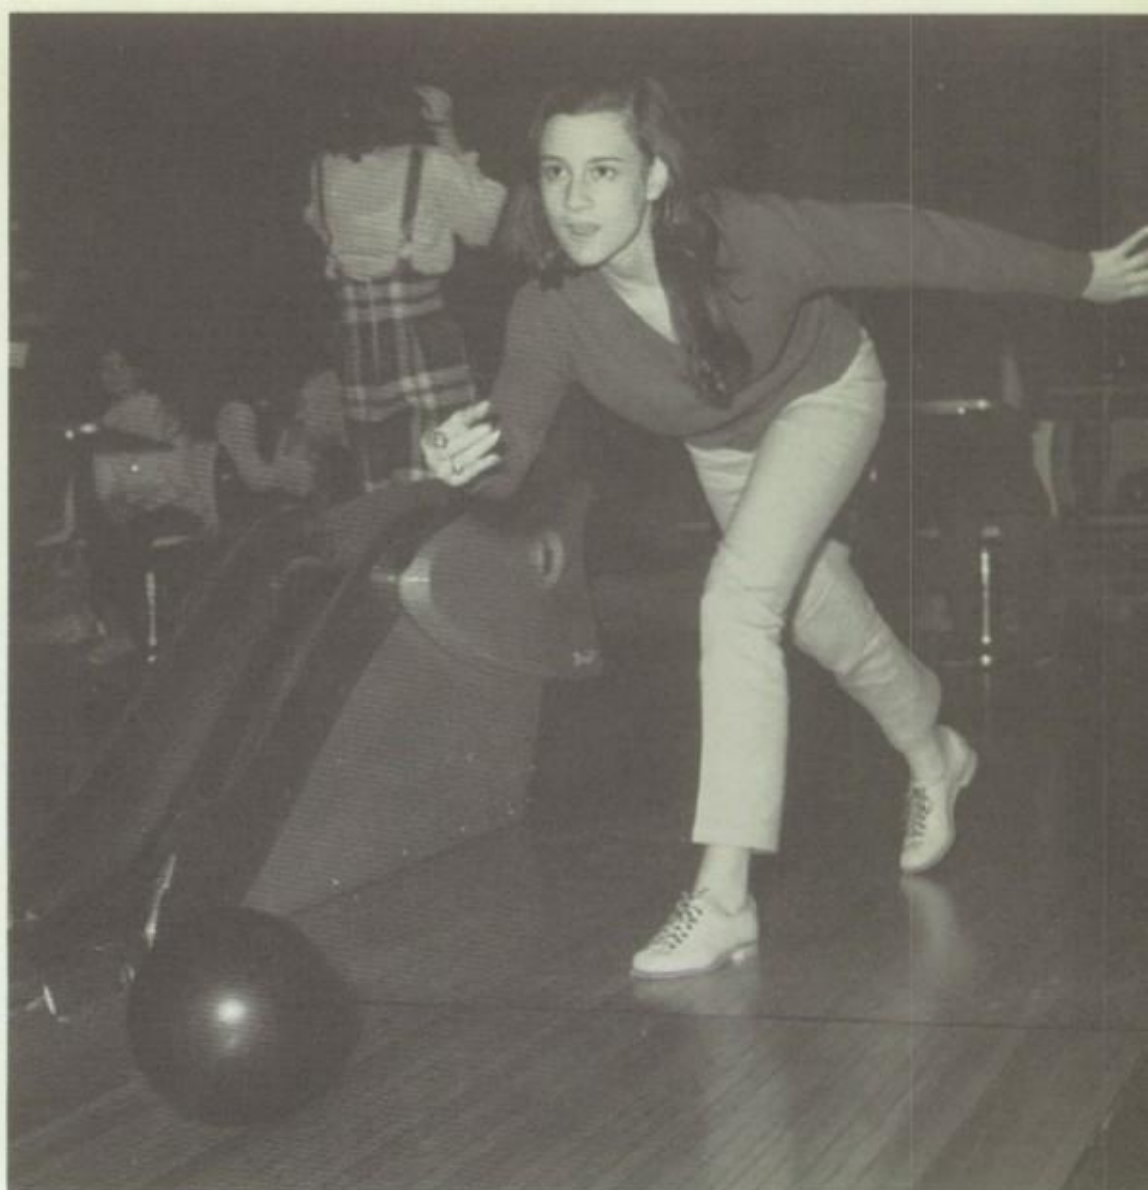

The newest club to form was the Bleacher Bums, a cheering section which took its name from the Chicago Cubs center field fans. In addition, approximately 125 students joined the regular Pep club which practiced with the cheerleaders and painted large signs advertising each game.

For those who enjoy winter sports, the Ski club arranged for trips to Pine Knob every Tuesday evening, weather permitting. Students could take group lessons and had several types of slopes to meet the needs of the inexperienced as well as the more advanced skiers.

In February, 46 members of the club journeyed to the Sugar Loaf Mountain resort for a weekend, where in addition to skiing, students also had an opportunity to swim and ride snow-mobiles.

Girls interested in energetic sports joined the Girls Athletic association where they could bowl, take part in track and field events, or join volleyball and soft ball teams.

Special interest was provided when EDHS girls competed against teams from other league schools.

ESP was the topic of Mr. Ken McCaulley's presentation to the newly formed That's Once group. Interested club members are: Steve Osterland, Kathy Durella, Carrie Masters, Evelyn Brooks, Jim Pannecouk, and Debbie Reichenbach.

Philosophy, Future Clubs Stimulate New Interests

KNOWLEDGE and experience gained through lectures and outings helped members of the Future clubs in furthering their goals and prompted the formation of the That's Once group.

That's Once members held evening meetings to discuss topics pertinent to today's youth. Guest speakers talked on such subjects as astrology, ESP, and the SDS movement.

The Future Nurses club informed its members of the available training programs through related personal experiences of former students and field trips to hospitals and universities. Money from the club's annual candy sale was used to buy gifts for the mentally retarded at Christmas, to support Project Hope, and for setting up a nursing scholarship to be awarded to one of the club members.

Student teachers related their experiences to Future Teachers club members at their weekly meetings. The girls sold refreshments at basketball games to earn money for a planned visit to a college.

Applying Christian teachings to teen experience, Campus Life club members met weekly for discussion sessions and social relaxation. The club opened the year with a "get acquainted" Pizza Blast.

Vocal Clubs Develop Creative Talents

DRAMA and speech activities were handicapped at EDHS this year due to a fire in the auditorium.

The Pit and Balcony Drama club nevertheless accepted the challenge and produced the musical-comedy, "A Thurber Carnival," in November, using the Grant Junior high stage for the production. A Christmas play was also presented by club members for junior high and elementary school students.

Drama enthusiasts who made outstanding contributions in various facets of theatrical productions were invited to join the National Thespian Society.

Because of the limited productions, sponsor Ray Beard expressed his regrets that much of the talents and energy in the student body went unrecognized.

An all-female debate squad brought East Detroit a third place trophy in the Middle Macomb league. Individual honors were won by Varsity debater Mary O'Gara and Judy Stahl of the JV squad.

This year, East Detroiters who had special interests in public speaking had an opportunity to participate in a forensics program. Individuals were able to compete in such areas as oratory, declamation, radio newscasting, humorous and serious interpretation.

Highly Rated Book Revises Format

AFTER earning top honors again last year, members of the 1970 yearbook staff decided to enter the new decade with a new look.

The standard high school yearbook size proved inadequate to contain the ever-increasing senior section so the staff voted to experiment with a 9 x 12 inch "college size" book.

For the fourth year in a row, East Detroit's yearbook swept all three top honors, "Medalist," "All-American," and "A+" from the national yearbook rating associations.

Typewriters are kept in constant use as students and adviser John Enwright, worked on stories, headlines, and legends. Editors and assistants combined imagination and creativity in selecting pictures and designing new and appealing pages.

Seniors Kathy Hoff and Dana Jackson headed the 21-member staff as co-editors. In addition to the Powell Studio staff, three student photographers spent many hours snapping candid pictures and developing them in the school darkroom.

Three staff members accompanied their adviser to New York to attend the Columbia Yearbook convention in October. The group attended meetings at the university and also visited many of the famous sights of America's largest city.

Records were again broken as the business staff tabulated 1850 sales in a 10-day campaign.

Honor Society Initiates New Members

SELECTION procedures for membership in the local chapter of the National Honor Society were modified this year to give applicants a better chance to qualify.

The committee in charge decided to allow students to choose teachers and sponsors to judge them. Membership was based on scholastic ability, leadership qualities, service and character.

In order to be eligible a student must have earned at least a 3.0 grade average. Candidates were also judged on participation in school clubs and church or community groups.

Instead of the traditional installation exercises held in the auditorium, senior members notified the newly chosen students in their individual classrooms. The formal induction ceremonies took place at the annual Honor Banquet in May, to which all members and their parents were invited.

Applications this year numbered 145, the largest number ever eligible during East Detroit's five year membership in the national organization.

Mrs. Kathleen Slebodnik served as chairman of the seven-member faculty committee who was in charge of arrangements for the society this year.

Cheerleaders Sound Off With Enthusiasm, Style

CAPTURING the highest honors ever held by East Detroit cheerleaders, this year's varsity squad helped rouse student support for the Shamrocks' thrilling football and basketball seasons.

The 13-girl squad attended Camp All-American in August, in Hartland, Michigan. These camp sessions helped them learn new cheers and meet cheerleaders from other schools.

They returned from camp with a glistening second place team trophy and two individual trophies. Lora Bruder and Lynn Longobardi won two of the five awards presented for individual achievement.

To encourage larger crowds at the games and to provide sufficient funds for fall and winter uniforms, the girls held fund-raising campaigns during which shakers, carnations, and pennants were sold.

The girls practiced diligently three days a week in preparation for the games and also painted banners advertising each contest. They learned new cheers, prepared skits for pep assemblies, and helped organize the Pep club.

The cheerleading squad was chosen from 54 candidates and was selected by sponsor Dorothy Demrick and seniors from the 1969 squad.

SPORTS

CHEERS and triumphant shouts reverberated throughout EDHS as the football team captured the EML crown. The splash of swimmers in competition was heard for the first time and all curtailed sports were reinstated.

Gridmen Celebrate EML Championship

OFFENSE was the ingredient and a league championship was the result as the 1969 Shamrock varsity powered its way to its first undefeated Eastern Michigan league title in five years.

In wrapping up an overall record of six wins and three losses the '69 squad focused its sights on the Irish record book. The Shamrocks established a new all-time rushing mark of 2,192 yards which when combined with their 1,271 passing yards brought the total yardage to 3,463.

The Green and White tallied 236 points, the highest total since 1956 when the all-time mark of 267 points was set.

The 5-0 EML season was highlighted in the fourth and fifth games when the Irish brought a Mt. Clemens three-year winning streak of 15 games to an end in a 20 to 18 thriller and then squeezed out a 38 to 34 victory over Port Huron Northern in a battle of the EML undefeated.

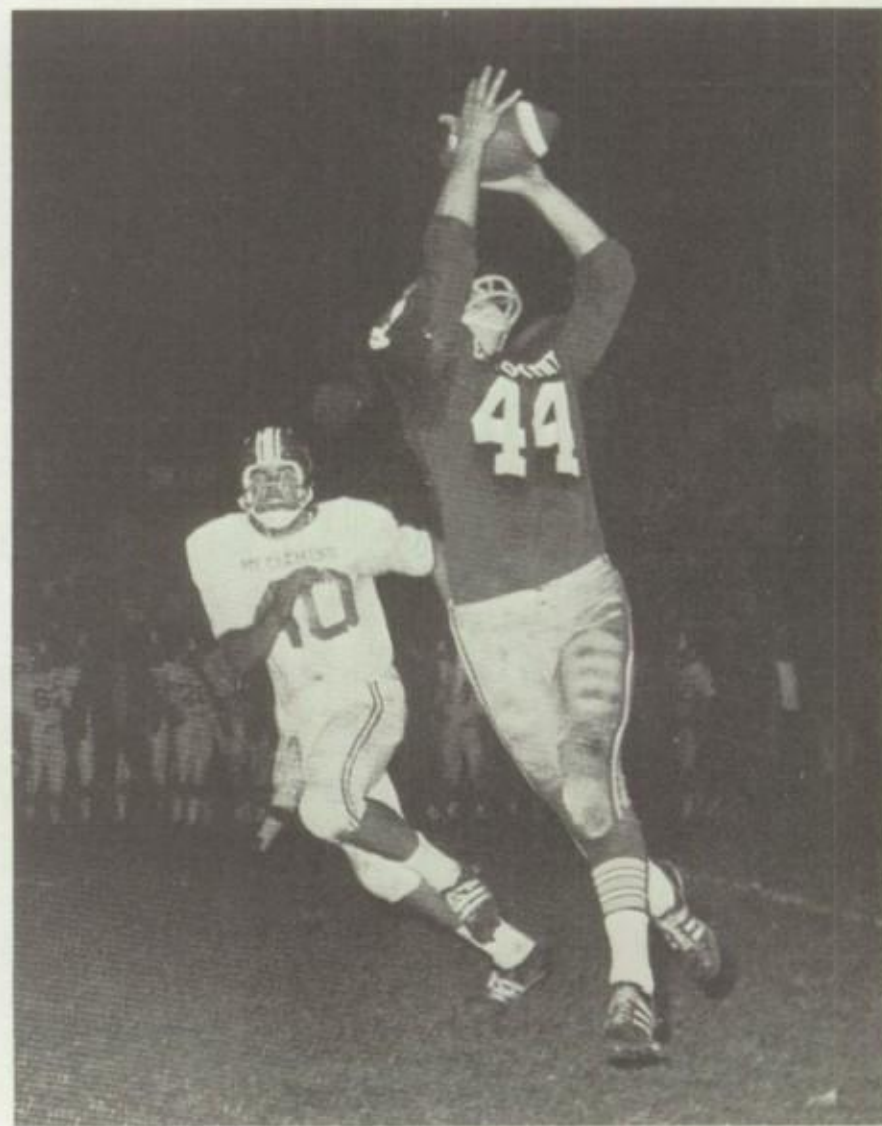

Hopes of earning state ranking were dashed when the Irish lost their final two non-league contests by a total of four points.

Dave Srot brought credit to himself and East Detroit high by capturing All-State honors, the first Shamrock to be so honored since 1966.

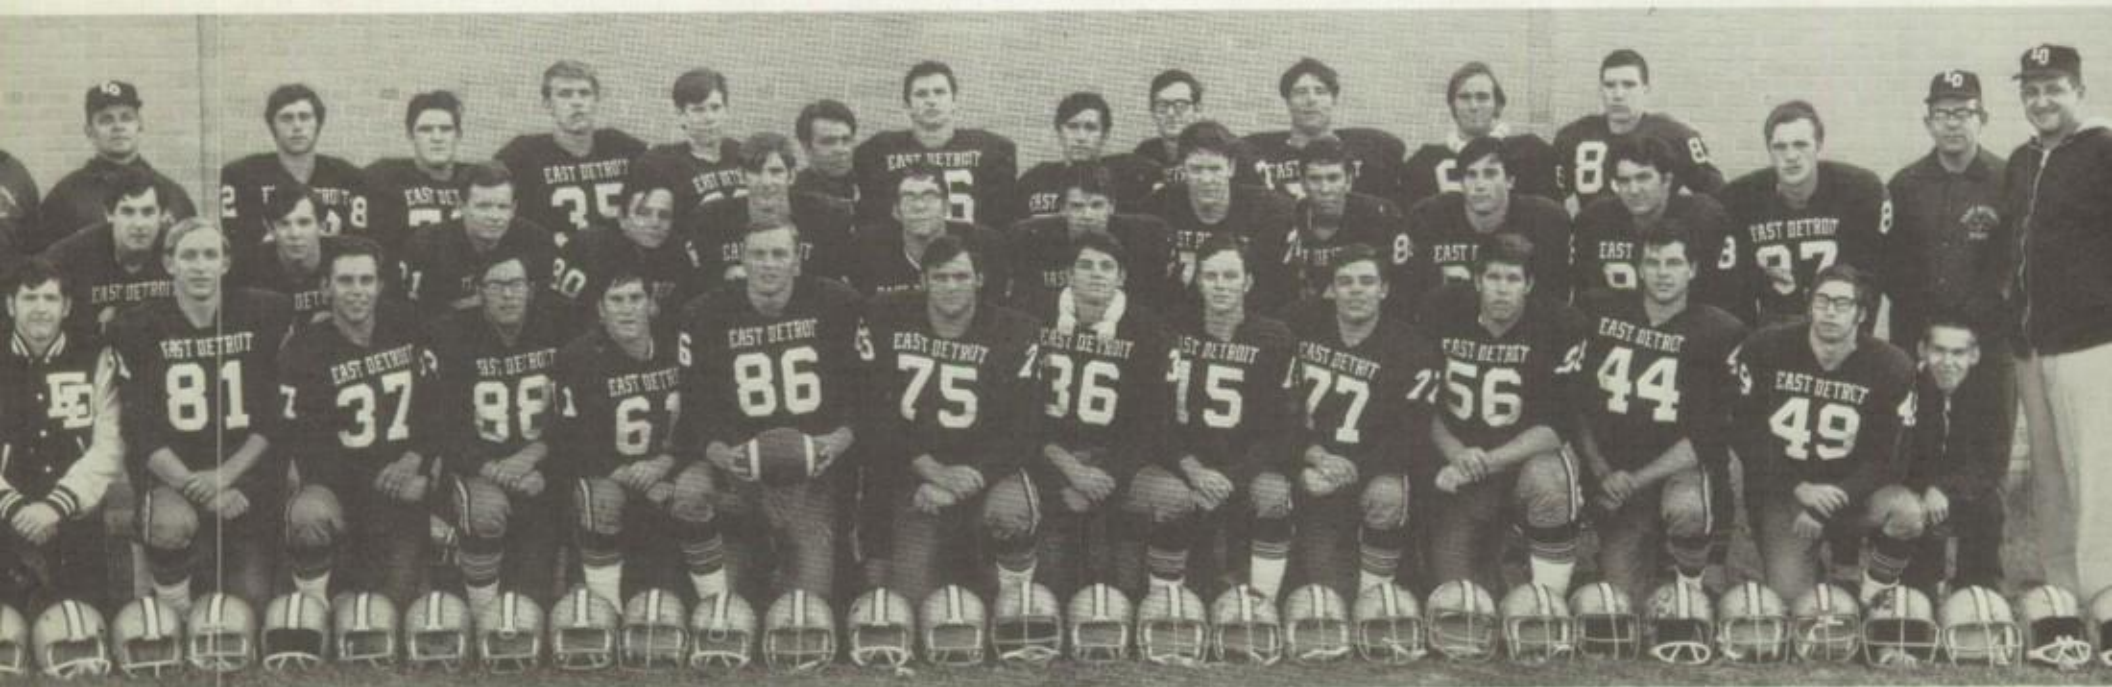

Tailback Srot earned this reward by establishing a season record of 1,639 offensive yards, scoring five touchdowns in one game, and a total of 140 points. Dave was also made honorary captain of the All-Suburban team, as well as being placed on the All EML squad.

Other East Detroit gridmen receiving honors were: Rick Geister, All-State honorable mention, East Area, and All-EML. Dave Hand, All-State honorable mention, All-Suburban honorable mention, and

All-EML. Don MacGillivray, All-State honorable mention, All-Suburban honorable mention, and All-EML. John Fritsch, All-State honorable mention, and All-EML. Mike Olson, All-EML.

Shamrock Reserves Tie For EML Championship

HECTIC and unpredictable best describes the '69 Junior Varsity football season, however, the records show that the EDHS squad tied for first place in the Eastern Michigan league with three other teams.

A record of three wins and two losses earned the Irish a share of the title with Roseville, Mt. Clemens, and Port Huron. Their over-all record was four wins and three losses.

Offensively, the JV team more than doubled the scoring of the 1968 squad. This year the Reserves compiled a total of 148 points in a seven-game schedule compared to last year's 65 points spread over eight games. The defense also earned praise holding the opponents to only 64 points.

Top scoring honors were shared by Lenny Santa Maria and Bob Uttenhove who each scored eight touchdowns, followed by Ken Portelli with three.

Cross Country Runners Young, Speedy, Promising

LED by a determined senior and two hard-running sophomores, East Detroit's cross country team chalked up a season total of four wins and seven losses, and a 4-6 record in Eastern Michigan league competition.

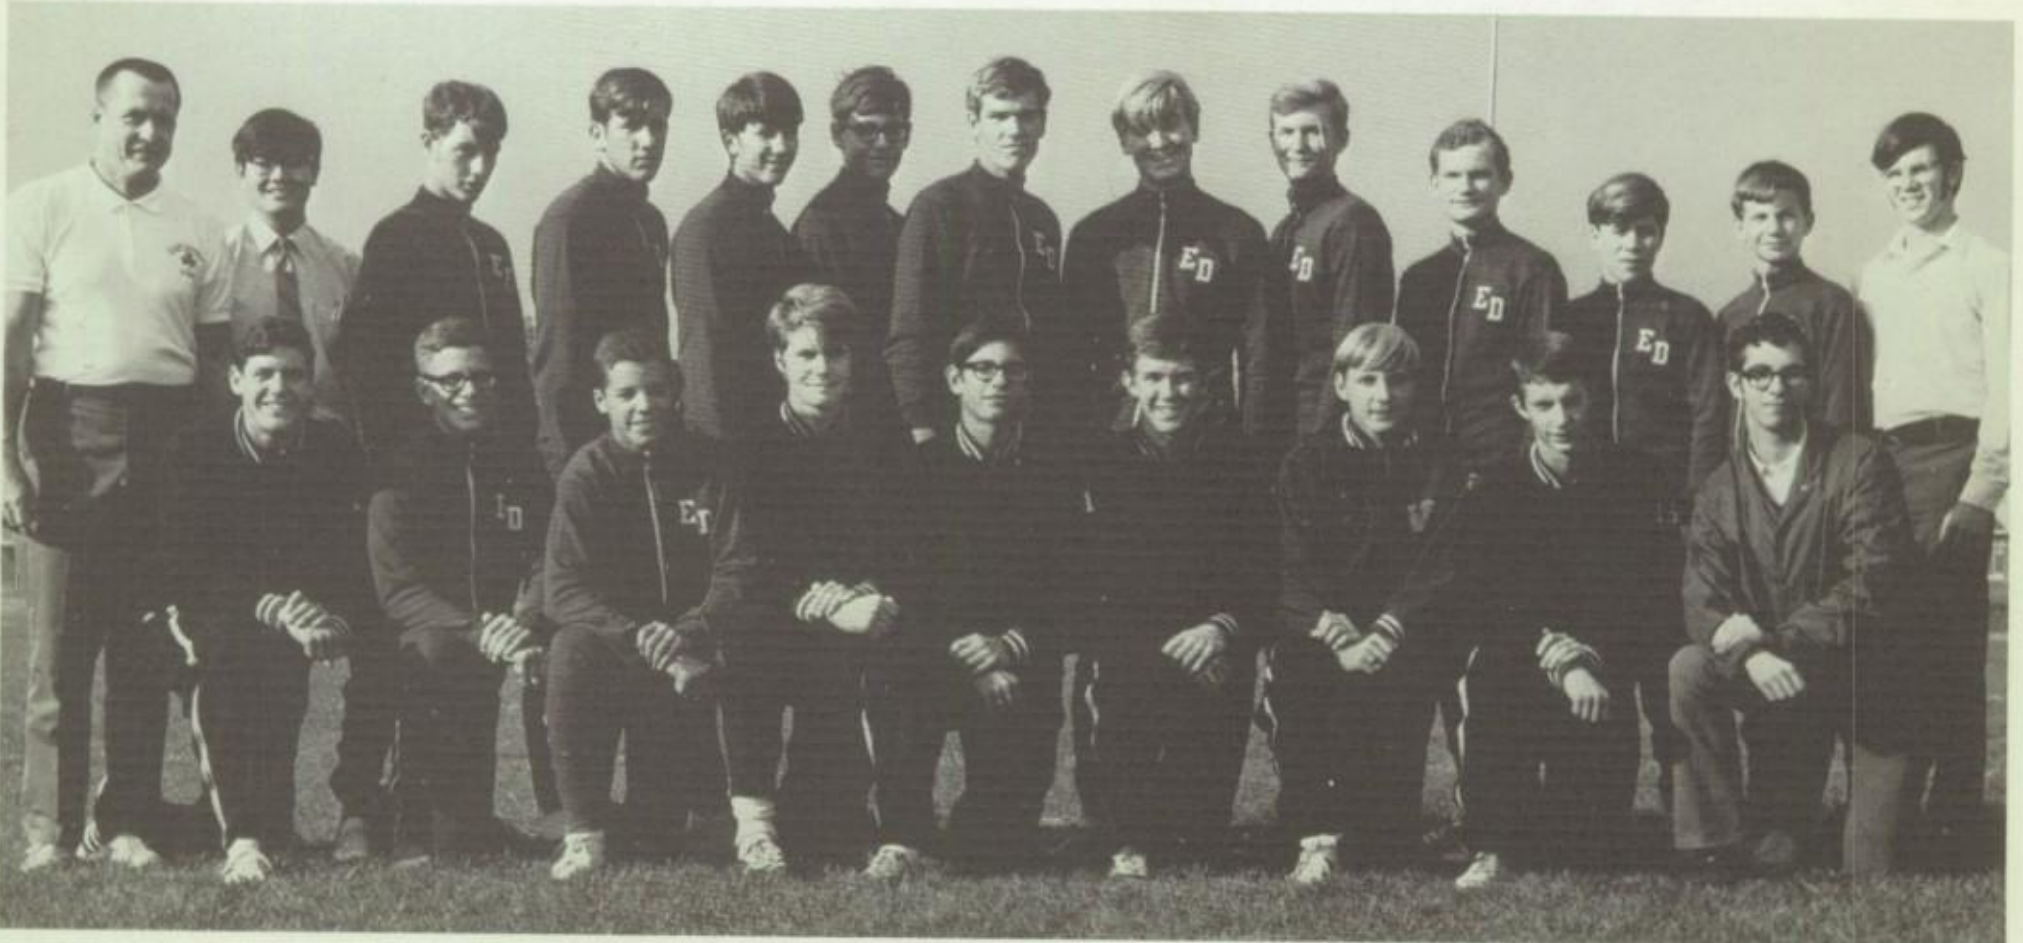

Senior Dennis Wilson was the team's top runner with a total of 53 points, followed by sophomores Mark McMullen with 56, and Jon Schuster with 65. In cross country the lowest scores are the winners.

Cross country was reinstated on the athletic schedule this fall after an absence of one year, due to financial curtailments. The squad, therefore, was inexperienced and with the exception of three seniors was made up of underclassmen.

Although young, this year's team had seven qualifiers in the State Regionals with five of them breaking the 11 minute mark. McMullen took honors as the fastest of the Shamrock runners with a time of 10:42. Others who ran the two-mile course in less than 11 minutes were: Schuster, Wilson, Brad Livingston, and Paul Hewelt.

Despite a fourth place finish in the EML meet, Coach Jack Roberts is optimistic about his Irish runners when they take the field next September.

Cagers Suffer Disappointing Season

HIGH hopes were shattered as East Detroit's varsity cagers suffered through their first losing season since the 1962-63 campaign.

Although the Shamrocks ended the year with a 7-10 overall mark, their 4-6 Eastern Michigan league record gave them a third place finish.

The glory of an exciting 62-58 opening victory over a strong Fitzgerald squad was short-lived as the '70 team began to sway from victory to defeat for the remainder of its schedule. The Irish bid for a successful EML season was thwarted by Mt. Clemens and Utica Stevenson as they combined to hand the Shamrocks four of their six league defeats.

Providing much of the offensive strength this year were senior Werner Imre and junior Frank Ferretti who totaled 474 points between them. Imre, who was selected "Most Valuable Player," led all scorers with 256 points and captured the free throw title with a 72.1 per cent mark. He also contributed to the rebound total with 130. Ferretti's 218 points earned him second place scoring honors.

This year's team was paced by co-captains Eric Geister and Dave Srot who cleared the boards for totals of 228 and 150 respectively.

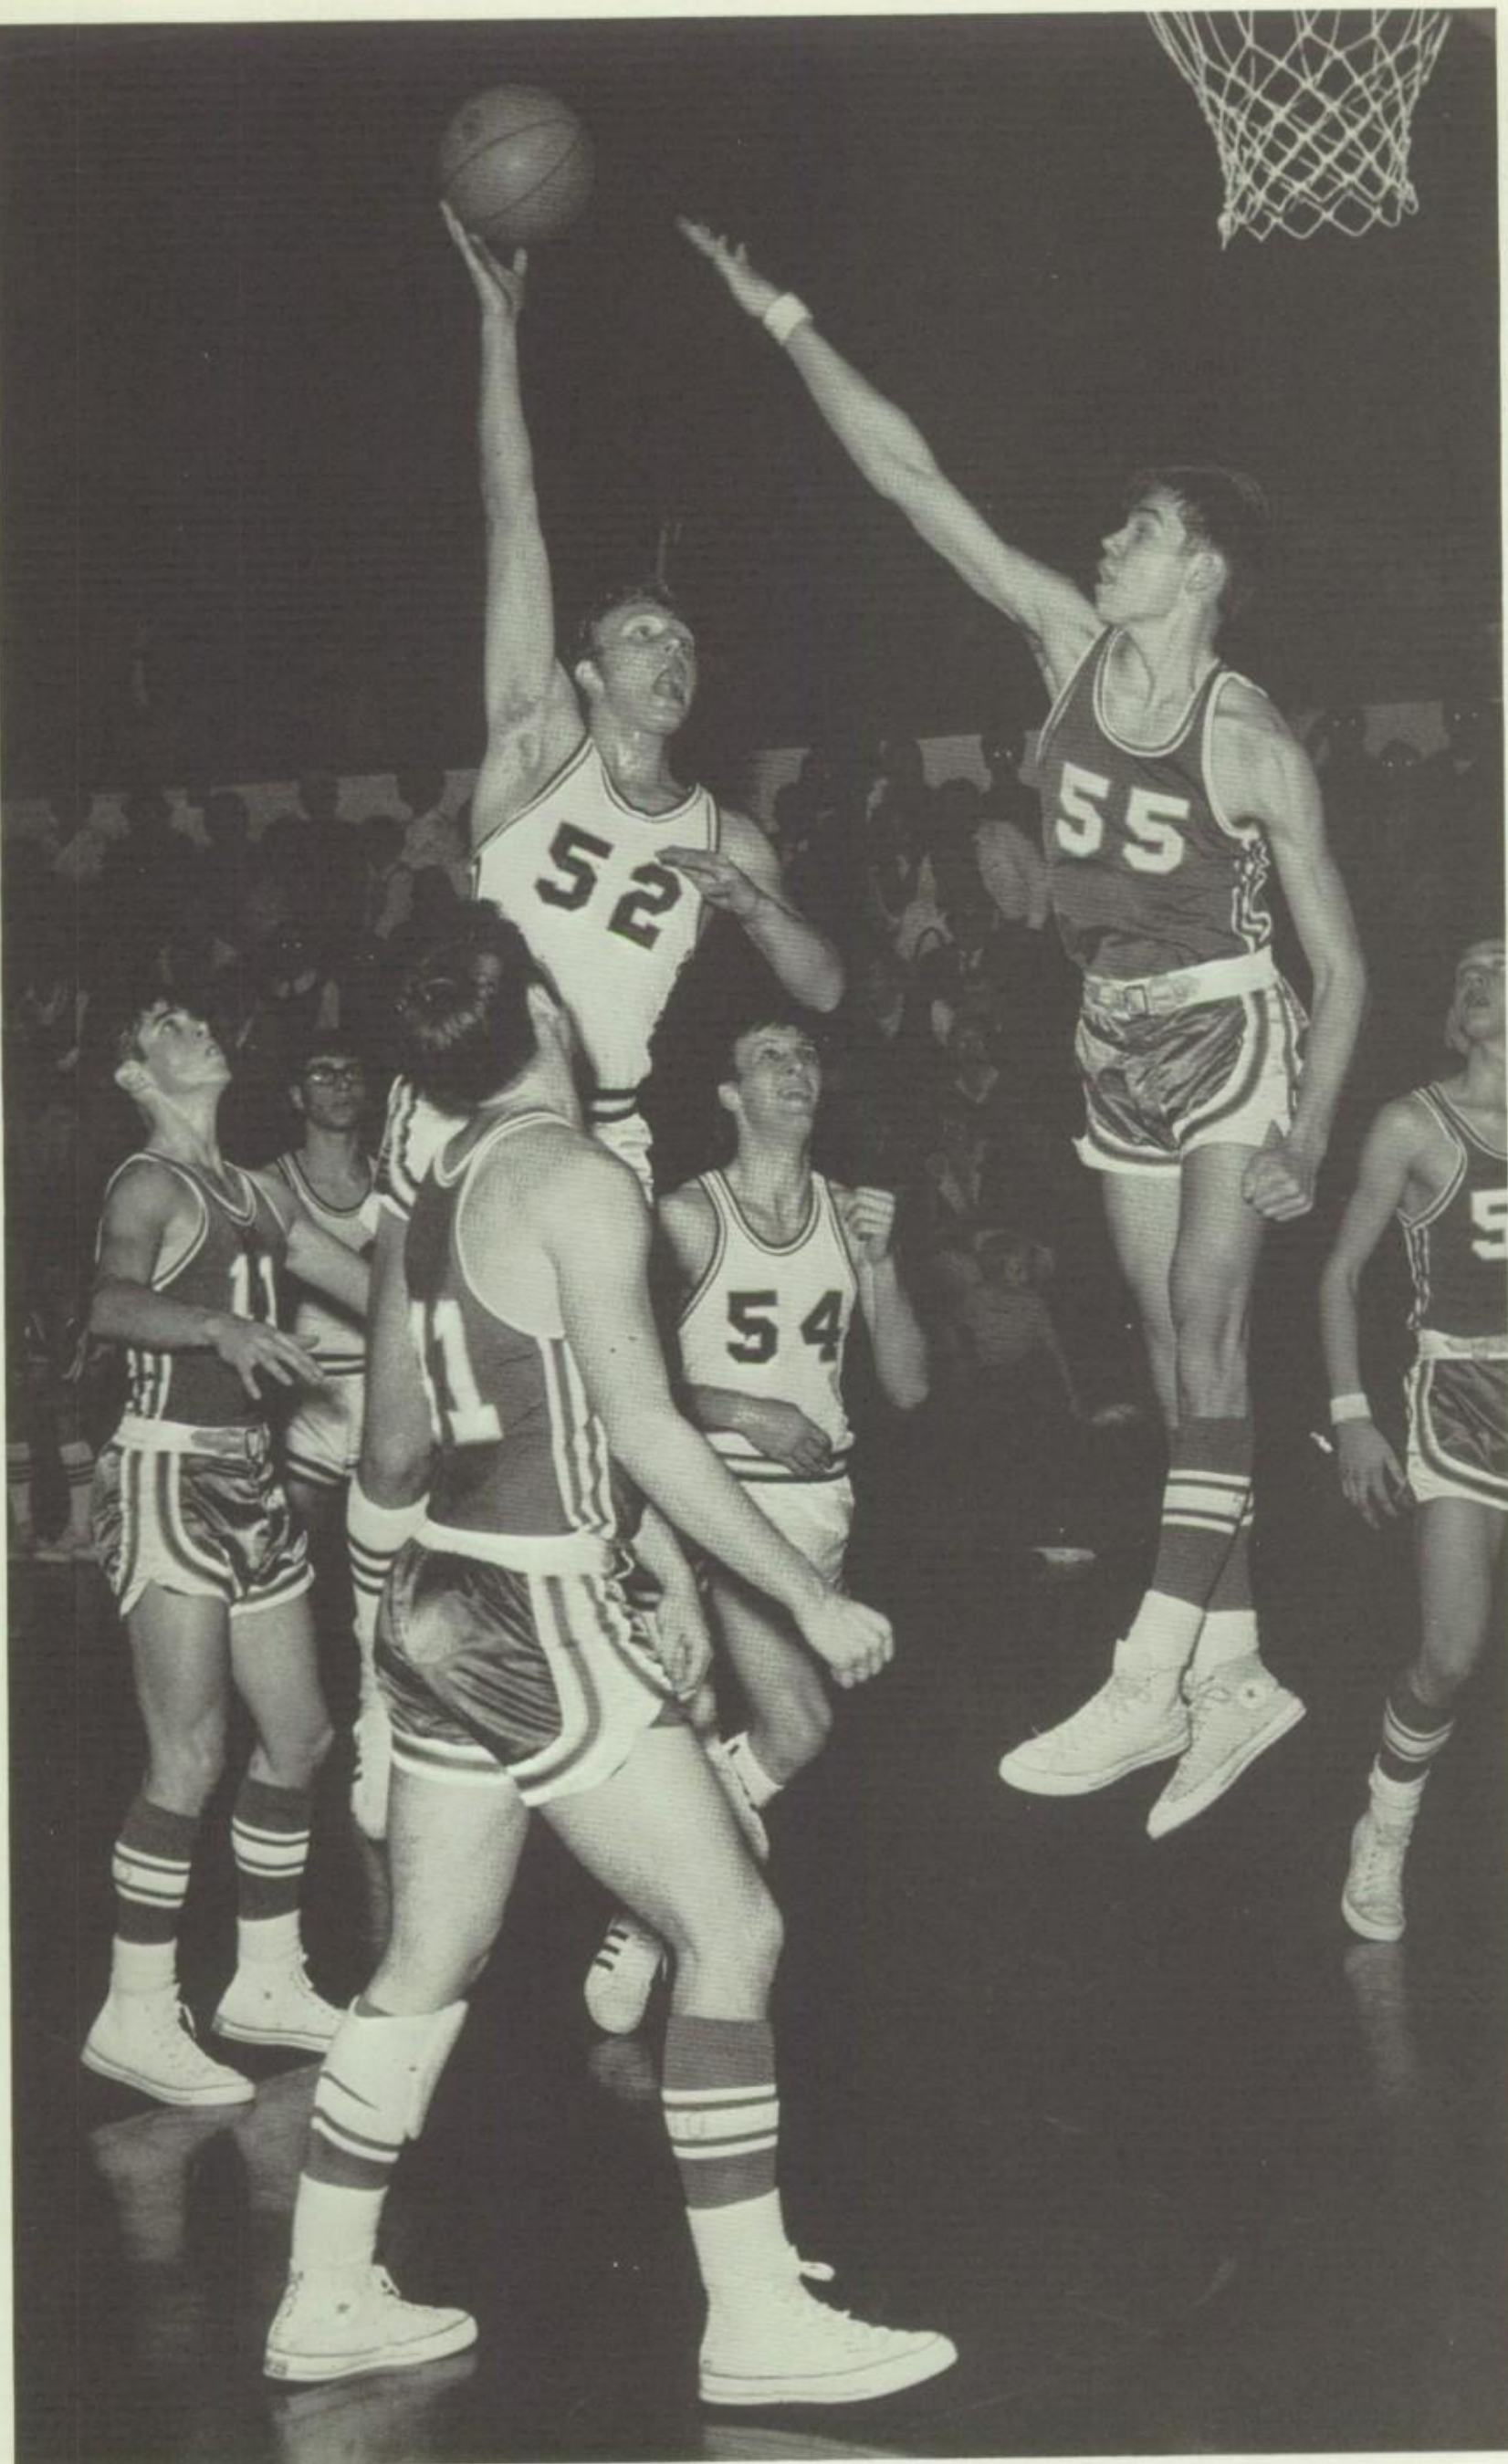

With the probable return of eight lettermen and the prospects of selecting from an undefeated Junior Varsity squad, Coach Jack Roberts looks for the return of East Detroit as a cage power.

Five cagers completed the year in triple figures. Chuck Lugabil led the team with 221 points followed by Lenny Santa Maria, 204; Dan Laetham, 202; Karl Sass, 186; and Kevin Krass with 149.

First Year Swim Team Posts Successful Season

SWIMMING competitively for the first time, the varsity swim team completed the season with a respectable record of 11 wins and four losses.

Mt. Clemens and Stevenson were the only teams to down East Detroit and these same two squads were responsible for the Shamrock tankers' 2-4 EML record, which netted them third place.

The 1969-70 squad was primarily a young one with only three seniors, Keith Creagh, Pete Maftieu, and Mike Walsh. In addition to serving as tri-captains, these three compose three-quarters of the 200 yard medley relay which earned the Irish eight first place finishes in that event.

Four swimmers led the team in first place finishes. Mike Back won 11 times in the 200 and 400 yard free-style; Mike Walsh captured nine firsts in the 100 yard backstroke; Doug Stevens' eight wins came in the 100 yard butterfly and 50 yard freestyle; and Doug Happe earned his seven wins in the 200 yard individual medley and 100 yard butterfly.

With most lettermen returning, Coach Dave Clark is optimistic about next year's prospects.

Year Layoff Hinders Shamrock Wrestlers

DISPLAYING his aggressive style, sophomore Bill Stump tangles with a determined Port Huron Northern competitor. Stump's efforts were rewarded with a decision.

DESIRE, aggressiveness, and dedication are the demands made upon wrestlers. Yet, the 1970 varsity squad found victory on the mats extremely difficult without one other element, experience.

Due to the millage failure East Detroit wrestlers were forced to sit out the '68-69 season. This year of inactiveness left the Irish with only two matmen with previous experience in competition.

The Shamrocks faced their schedule with a new coach, Mr. Robert Friedland, and 22 untested wrestlers. During the season the squad earned two wins while suffering nine losses. In Eastern Michigan league play their record was 1-4.

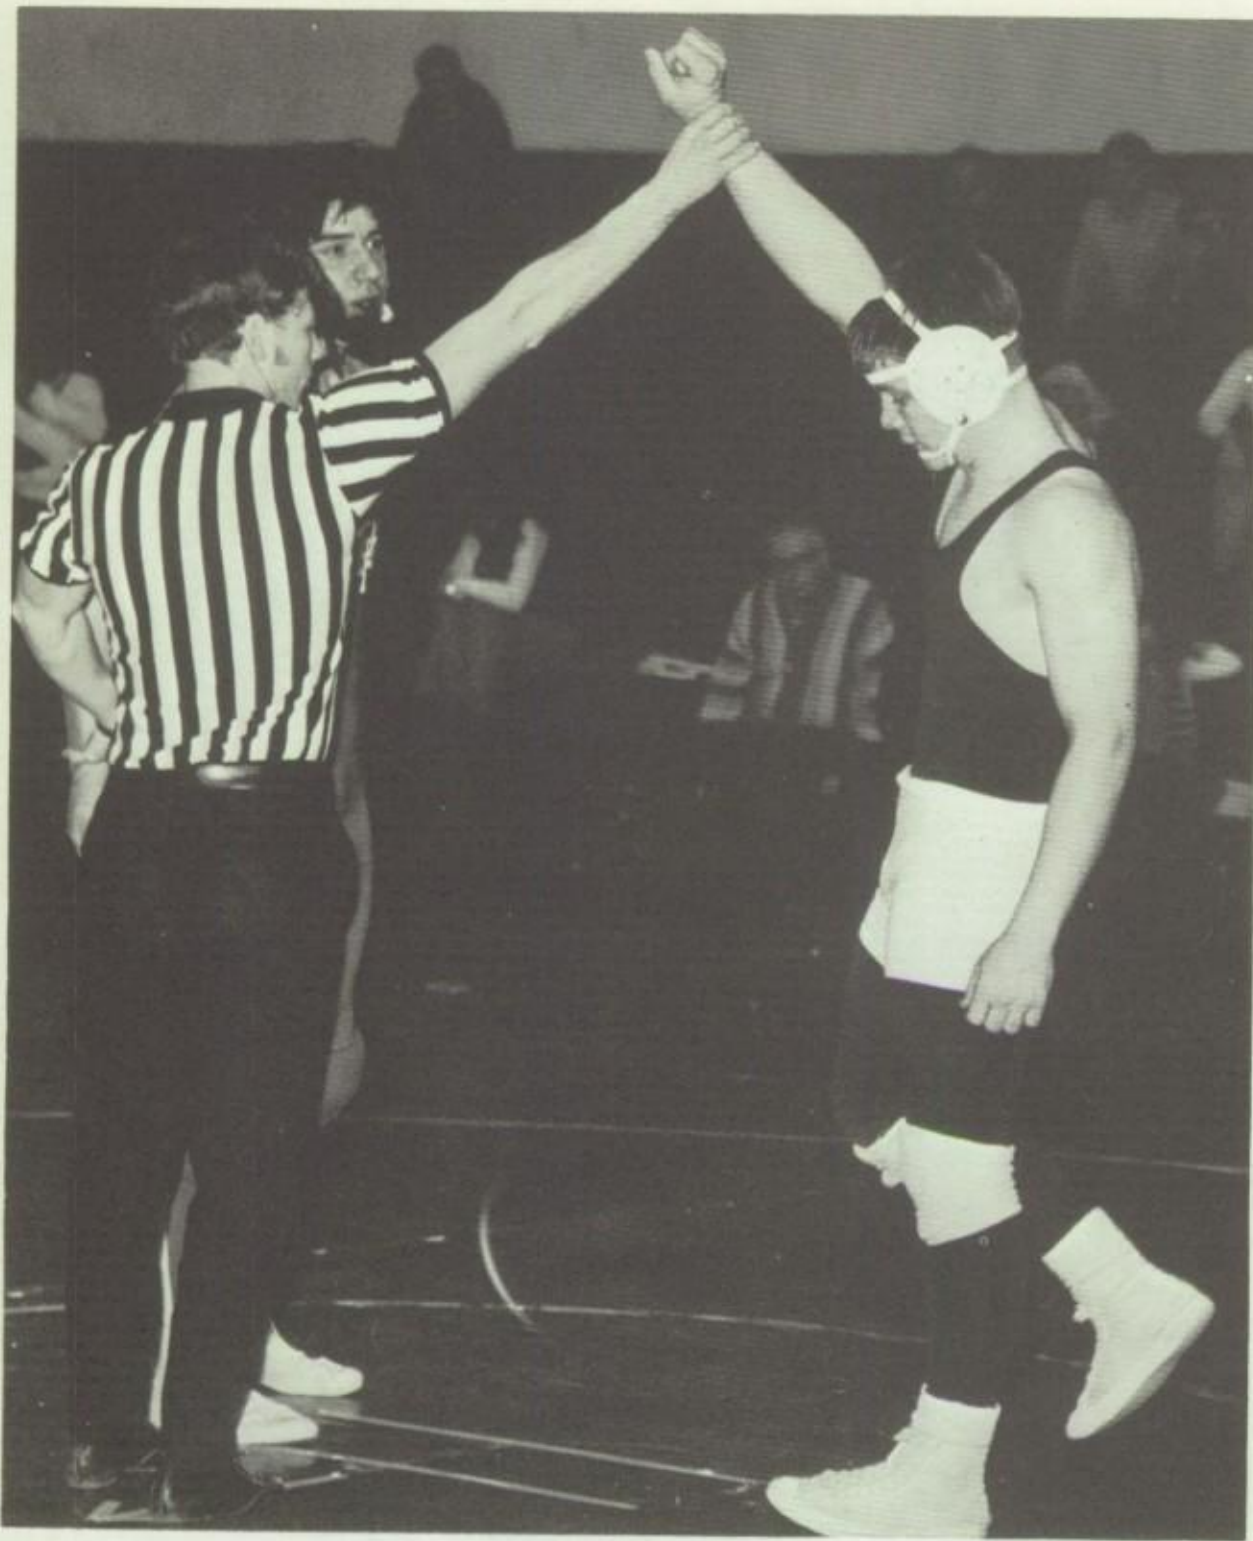

The Irish, however, were not without their stand-outs. Spencer Gettig, a junior, captured "Most Valuable" honors with a record of eight wins and two losses and a 30-point season total. Sam Delia was awarded "Most Improved Wrestler." Gettig and Delia, along with John Fritsch went on to place in the District Tournaments.

Gettig advanced through the Regionals before suffering defeat in the State finals. All three were awarded medals for their performances.

Losing only two seniors through graduation, the Shamrocks will have a seasoned squad next year.

Cindermen Look For Tight EML Race

RALLYING around a nucleus of seven returning lettermen, East Detroit's 1970 cinderman planned to utilize this valuable experience in what was predicted to be a close Eastern Michigan league race.

Last season the Irish compiled a 5-2 overall mark and ranked third in the EML.

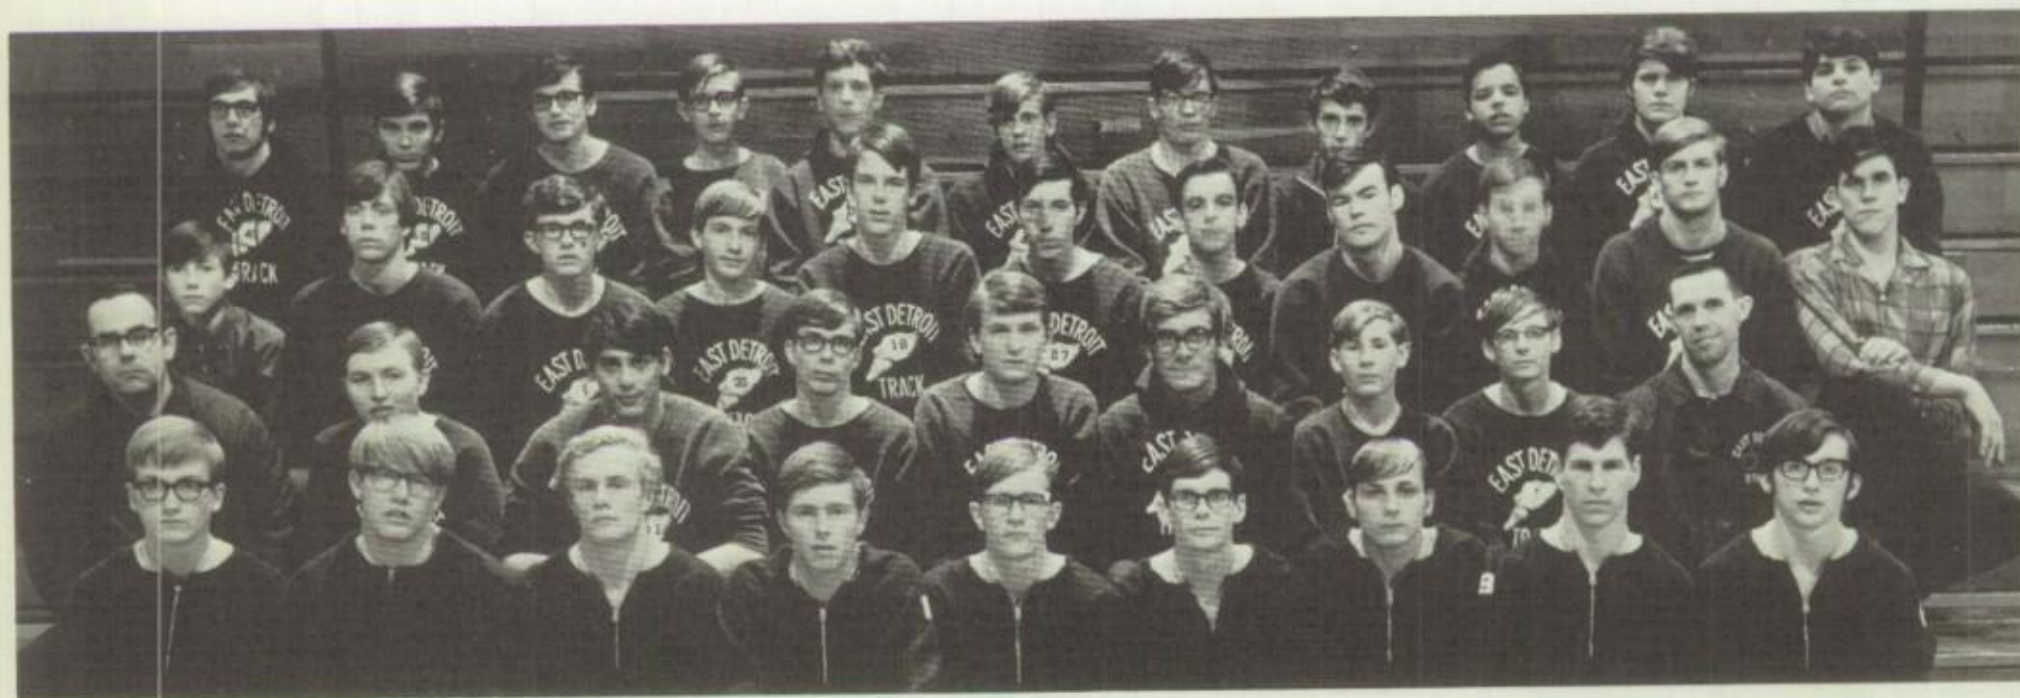

This year's squad had the honor of initiating the school's new $77,000 all-weather track when it opened the season in early April.

Bob Cosand, Werner Imre, and Bob Peri led the '70 trackmen as tri-captains. The squad as a whole was expected to be strong in the hurdles, high jump, pole vault, and distance running, but is inexperienced in the long jump, shot-put, and sprints. Individual stand-out performances were expected from Mark Domlovil and Ron Riley in the quarter mile, Pelmer Gipson in the two-mile, and Imre in the high jump and high hurdles. Imre led all scorers last year by winning First Place 18 times while competing in three events in each of seven dual meets.

"This year's crop of sophomores is the best I've seen in recent years," commented Coach Dennis Wheeler. With this in mind, the coach predicted that this year's squad would definitely be in contention for the Eastern Michigan league crown.

Layoff May Hinder Hopes For Tennis Crown

HOPES of continued Shamrock excellence on the courts was the desire of the 1970 varsity tennis team as it began its season this spring.

After a two-year absence, this year's netmen were out to add to East Detroit's three consecutive EML championships won in 1965, '66, and '67, before millage cutbacks forced the Irish to sit out the 1968 and 1969 competition.

Mr. Fred Roberts resumed his coaching position this spring, after having guided the Shamrocks to a 14-1 record, the '67 EML title, and second position in the Regional tournaments in his first year as coach.

According to the coach, the 1970 squad, which has no seniors on its roster, is young and inexperienced. However, he is confident of strong performances from juniors Marty Jacobs and Larry Murphy in the singles, and holds great hopes for sophomores Cliff Black, Doug Timm, and Brad Thompson.

Irish Bats Boom Again After 2-Season Layoff

RETURNING from a two-year absence, as a result of millage curtailments, the 1970 baseball team looked forward to continued success in league competition.

The Shamrocks last fielded a baseball squad in the spring of 1967 and captured its fourth consecutive EML crown.

Pitching will be of major importance according to Coach Mel McKenzie and he expected strong performances from Dave Hand and Eric Geister. He also anticipated John Martinik, Dave Srot, and Don MacGillivray to lead the team in hitting with top fielding from Bob Hunwick and Keith Gugel.

CONCENTRATING on the strike zone, Eric Geister fires a fast ball to a Lincoln Player.

FACULTY

VOICES of experience sounded in the classrooms as EDHS teachers organized and presented their courses of study. A blend of wit and wisdom mixed with a little intellectual dissension made 1970's faculty different and interesting.

Changes, Experiments Offer Challenge For '70

DESPITE a hectic beginning, with the opening of school delayed eight days due to teacher contract negotiations, and the sudden resignation of Superintendent Robert Smiley, the 1969-70 school year developed into one of promise.

New Superintendent, Michael Emlaw, who had served as administrative assistant in the system for three years, found it necessary to realign some of the administrative responsibilities and to tighten the budget in several areas. After seven months in office, however, Mr. Emlaw expressed satisfaction with the progress being made and remained enthusiastic and optimistic about the future of the school district.

On the high school level, the year was one of frustration for the fine arts department when a fire damaged the stage in September so severely that only limited use was made of the stage during the second semester.

Before the stage will be available for regular plays and productions a sprinkling system must be installed above the stage and a new lighting system must be purchased. Administrative officials have not determined when money would be available for these purposes.

After a one-year trial period, Principal John Sanders announced in March that final examinations would be reinstated. The principal gave as his reasons for the reinstatement, "the educational value of exams, the lack of improved evaluation techniques by teachers, and student attitudes in May and June."

A relaxed dress code was further modified to allow girls to wear slacks during the cold months. A decision was to be made later to determine if the wearing of slacks would become a permanent part of the dress regulations.

Inasmuch as the teacher contracts cover a two-year period and the estimated tax monies appear stable, the East Detroit school system looks forward to a new year of educational growth.

'Teacher Of The Year'

Yearbook Salutes Band Director

DAILY the sound of music echoes from the EDHS band room and busy in the hub of this excitement is this year's "Teacher of the Year," Mr. Alfred Marco.

Since 1957, Mr. Marco has been mainly concerned with directing the concert band and a second group of his own creation, the wind ensemble. Due to millage defeats, however, he was called upon last year to be the only music teacher in the high school, directing the choir in addition to a band and regular classes in music theory and music appreciation.

As if this was not enough to keep this versatile musician busy he also arranged and directed music for the annual variety show, "Shenanigans," and served as musical director for "The Fantasticks."

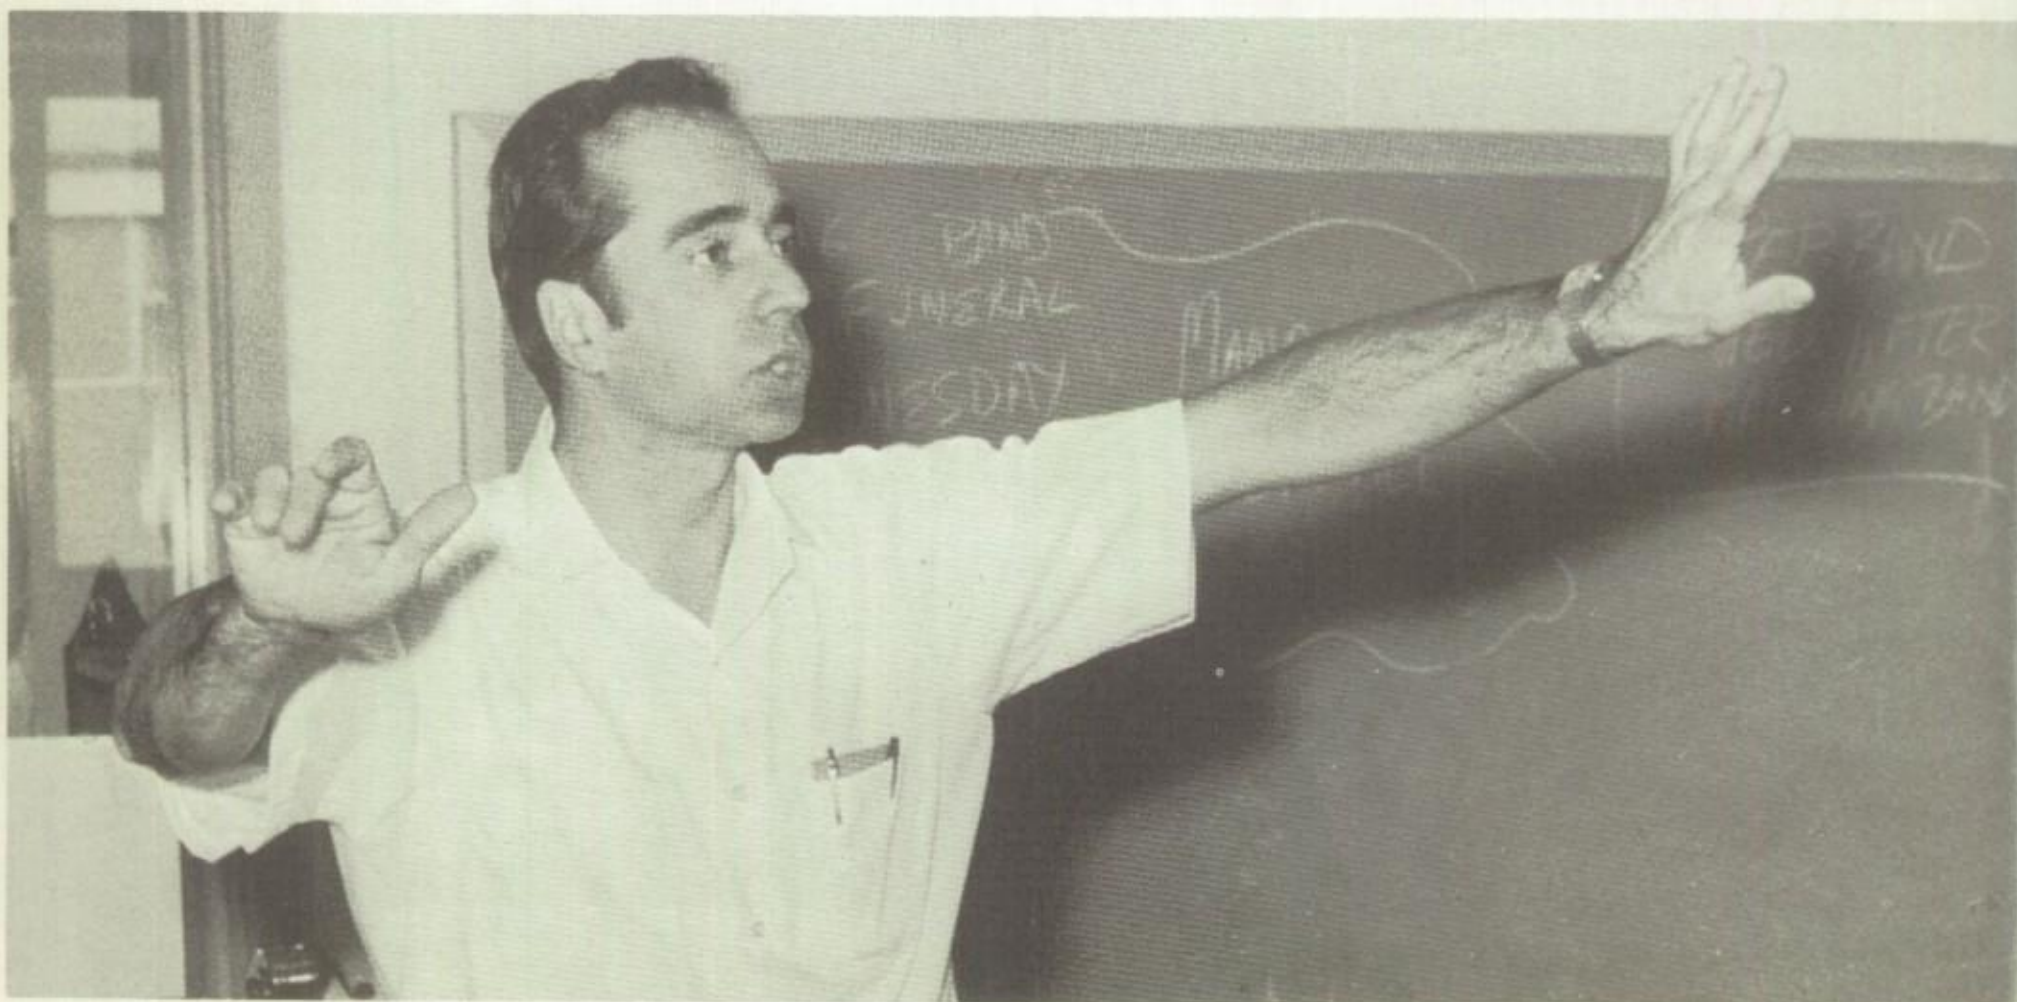

Always willing and ready to help, Mr. Marco spent numerous volunteer hours with his students, preparing and perfecting their individual solos. Much time was also devoted to after-school section rehearsals. In the fall, he planned and directed the complicated formations for the marching band's football halftime shows.

In the nine years they competed under Mr. Marco's direction, bands have received top honors eight times at the district band festivals. A rare, but not unprecedented, accomplishment was achieved this year when both EDHS bands received the highest possible ratings at the festival, the only school in Macomb and Oakland counties to earn this honor.

It is then, with great admiration that the East Detroit staff salutes this enthusiastic and dedicated man, Mr. Al Marco, 1970 "Teacher of the Year."

THANKING director Alfred Marco for the inspiration he has given them, band members present a gift at the winter concert.

ACKNOWLEDGMENT

MEMBERS of the 1970 East Detroiter staff would like to thank the teachers and students who helped in any way to produce and sell the largest yearbook in the history of the school.

Special appreciation is extended to the entire staff of the H.A. Powell Studios who not only provided excellent photographic coverage but also produced quality prints and performed other numerous services which made the work of the East Detroiter staff much more enjoyable.

Credit is also given to the Macomb Daily for use of one of their football pictures.

The savage sixties have ceased; the threshold of the seventies has been crossed! New opportunities will streak across the horizons and new challenges will be met or missed. The class of 1970 will have mixed memories of high school life but time will temper them and only the "good times" will remain. As the strains of "Pomp and Circumstance" echo through the Convention Arena in June, seniors will have an opportunity to ponder the meaning of their class motto:

"Let us not look back in anger ,
Nor forward in fear, But around in awareness."
